Hammarskjold Seeking Accord On Suez, Easing Of Tensions

CAIRO (AP) — U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold today began talks with top Egyptian officials in an effort to speed agreement on operation of the Suez Canal and to ease Arab-Israeli tensions still threatening the Middle East with violence.

Arriving in Cairo after midnight by plane, Hammarskjold talked with his aides, rested briefly at his hotel and then went to see Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi.

Egypt was expected to balk at the plea Hammarskjold reportedly will make for an Egyptian-Israeli proclamation of nonbelligerency.

It was believed Hammarskjold would call for such pledges as a major curb against renewed warfare and that Israel would agree to go along. The Israelis have said all along they are ready to talk peace with the Arabs.

The Arab allies of the 1948 Palestine War have refused to talk peace with the Israelis. They have used the continuing technical state of war as a basis for their economic boycott of Israel and their refusal to let Israeli ships use the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba. There appeared little hope Egypt would modify that position in the current talks with Hammarskjold.

* * *

THE SECRETARY general was smiling as he stepped from the plane that brought him on his fifth visit to Egypt in little more than a year. He declined to make any statement to reporters.

A U.N. press spokesman said he did not know whether Hammarskjold would visit the canal area and the Gaza Strip or how long he would remain in Egypt.

For the Gaza Strip, Hammarskjold was expected to try to work out a plan that would neutralize the Mediterranean coastal area militarily while leaving it under Egyptian administration.

He will urge the stationing of UNEF troops along both sides of the border separating Gaza and Israel, a proposal Israel rejected previously.

In Jerusalem, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion predicted another Arab-Israeli war is possible although probably not within the next few months. A letter from Ben-Gurion to border settlements contained the warning.

Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir left New York by plane Wednesday for Israel after emergency talks with Secretary of State Dulles and Hammarskjold. She said her talks with Dulles convinced her that U.S. and Israeli objectives in the Middle East are identical. But informed sources said she failed to win any assurances beyond those already publicly stated by Dulles and Eisenhower.

Poll On Change In Time Still 5-1 In Favor

Ohio Farm Bureau Is Opposed To "Fast Clock" Idea

A poll of Circleville businessmen on a proposal to adopt daylight saving time continued to run about 5 to 1 in favor of the plan today, but farmer opposition continued to grow.

Circleville Chamber of Commerce is conducting the poll as a public service. Postal cards are being sent to local tradesmen to determine the majority view.

An ordinance now awaiting final reading in city council would establish "Summer time" here, with the understanding that Circleville would make the time change only if Columbus does the same. Columbus residents will vote on the proposal at the May primary.

Darrell Hatfield, Chamber secretary here, said the margin in favor of the time change continues to be approximately 5 to 1. He emphasized he is not in position to say what action the Chamber will take when the poll is considered complete.

* * *

IT APPEARED likely, however, that the Chamber will confine its role in the matter to a report to council on the final tally.

Meanwhile, it was apparent that a majority of the farmers are firmly opposed to the time change. A rural spokesman for the local district warned that Circleville business establishments may lose business if the city adopts "fast time".

And today in Columbus, the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation said it is opposed to the seasonal time switch.

D. R. Stanfield, executive secretary of the farm group, said a change to daylight saving time would force dairy farmers to begin work at an unreasonably early hour to meet the milk truck pickup schedules.

"When cities go on fast time, farmers in the surrounding areas are affected even though they have not had an opportunity to express their opposition," Stanfield said.

Most of the northeast corner of Ohio goes on daylight saving time next month.

Social Security List To Jump Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government expects that in five years 10¼ million persons will be receiving $9 billion a year in social security benefits.

This would be an increase of about 50 per cent over present figures, the House Appropriations Committee was told.

Robert M. Ball, deputy director of the Bureau of Old Age and Survivors Insurance, said the figures projected through 1961 compared with 1957 totals of 7,740,000 beneficiaries and $6 billion in benefits. The social security trust fund, from which payments are made, now has in it $22½ billion.

Spring Said Best Time For Suicides

DALLAS (AP)—A psychiatrist says more people kill themselves in the spring than in any other season.

Dr. Louis J. West of Oklahoma City told the Southern Clinical Society that the symptoms of spring fever which bring a feeling of well-being to most persons have exactly the opposite effect on acutely depressed persons, making them feel more discouraged than ever.

He said suicides also increase during Christmas and other holiday season.

Medium Price Cars Said Holding Own

DETROIT (AP) — Medium price automobiles are resisting further invasion of their market by lower price makes, Ward's Automotive Reports said in its current issue.

The trade publication said:

"On the basis of March new car sales noted thus far, the low-price field models are continuing to garner 60 per cent of the new auto market.

"This means that between 10,000 and 15,000 persons daily are treking to the showrooms for such cars, which is equal to the pace at the same time a year ago.

"Accordingly, despite the unexpectedly high increase in '57 auto prices, there has not been any further withdrawal of medium price car buyers into the low-price class this year."

FAST AND LOUD ACTION by Mrs. Carmen Rudisil, shown with daughter Terri, 3, and "Tuffy" after the incident, thwarted a kidnaping attempt by a man and woman in Oakland, Calif. The 23-year-old mother left Terri and the dog outside a market while she shopped. 15-Month Extension Seen On Corporation Tax Setup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said today House leaders have agreed to go along with a plan to increase from a year to 15 months an extension of present rates on corporation taxes.

In view of this, Byrd reported, the Finance Committee he heads undoubtedly will vote for the longer extension to July 1, 1958. The House already has voted an extension to April 1, 1958. Unless Congress acts, the business tax rates will drop April 1, cutting revenues $3 billion a year.

Byrd said the longer extension would have the advantage of making the tax dates correspond with the government's fiscal years, which start July 1, so that, "if we ever can cut taxes, we would know just how it would affect the revenue."

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told the Finance Committee he would have no objection to the 15-month extension provided it did not delay final action on the bill beyond March 31.

* * *

BYRD SAID House leaders had told him they would accept the change without a conference. This would mean the measure could be sent to the White House before the deadline if the Senate acts by the middle of next week.

Present corporation rates include a 30 per cent normal tax on earnings up to $25,000, and a 22 per cent surtax on all the rest for a total of 52 per cent.

Meanwhile, the House cut deeper than its appropriations committee had recommended in slicing nearly $538 million from a bill to finance 18 separate federal agencies.

The reduction, as approved by the House on a voice vote, was 9 per cent below the $5,923,195,000 President Eisenhower had requested to run these independent agencies in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Last Friday, the Appropriations Committee had suggested the total in the bill be whacked by $516,993,300. But the House went beyond this, trimming another $21 million off requests.

Coal Pipeline Clogs Up On Steep Hill

CARROLLTON (AP)—One reason the world's longest coal pipeline clogged and won't open on April 9 as scheduled is that pumps wouldn't force the slurry up a steep hill south of here, the Cleveland Plain Dealer reports.

In a deep wooded ravine about five miles south of here, a Plain Dealer reporter located a hastily excavated pond containing tons of slurry emptied from the clogged line. The slurry is a mixture of powdered coal and water, about half and half. Some of the coal particles in the mixture were larger than the line could carry up a steep grade, the newspaper said it had learned.

Since the 108-mile - long, $12½ million pipeline broke down in its first major test four weeks ago, Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co. has rebuffed newsmen's attempts to find out what went wrong.

The line is of 10¾-inch steel welded in 40-foot links and runs from the southeastern Ohio coal fields to the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.'s generating plant on Lake Erie's shore. It is designed to handle 150 tons of coal an hour or 1,300,000 tons a year at a saving of up to 50 per cent over rail freight costs.

The bog-down came in the first leg of the pipeline south of Cadiz and the second pumping station at Carrollton.

Stiff Penalty Comes With 40th Arrest

PAINESVILLE (AP)—Clarence H. Boyce, 34, of Painesville, was sent to jail for 60 days on a drunken driving conviction Wednesday in Painesville Municipal Court following his 40th arrest in Lake County since 1941. He also was fined $200 and costs and his driver's license was suspended for three years.

Police records show Boyce had been arrested 12 times previously for drunken driving, 8 times for driving while his license was under suspension and 16 times for intoxication. Police said he also had been arrested for assault and battery and robbery.

Mideast Crisis Heads List Of Ike-Mac Parley Topics

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP) President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan assigned top priority to the Middle East crisis, including Suez and Egyptian-Israel problems, at the opening of their formal negotiations here today.

The session opened in the drawing room of the Mid-Ocean Club where chiefs of the two governments met with advisers.

Real start of the top level quest for fullscale restoration of the British - American partnership in world affairs began at a three-hour dinner Wednesday night, however, when the President and Prime Minister and secretaries of state reviewed world issues.

As a result of that talk, the Middle East crisis was put first as a topic of discussion.

While no announcement was made, it seemed probable that second position for discussion would be Britain's plans for cutbacks in its worldwide military commitments.

American officials foresaw a serious possibility the United States may have to make new commitments of its own to keep the free world's military guard up in the face of continual Soviet expansion.

A meshing of U.S. and British defense plans was assured a high place on the agenda, as was the tangle of urgent Middle East issues involving both countries.

Diplomats said the President and Prime Minister, together with Secretary of State Dulles, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and other officials, probably would hold two meetings daily through Saturday.

* * *

THE TWO government chiefs in statements made on their arrival Wednesday both expressed confidence their Bermuda meeting would result in a strengthening of British - American cooperation in world affairs.

Their advisers agreed privately that this hope can be realized only if the two men can arrive at agreements or better understandings on some very tough problems.

The issue of Britain's military cutbacks is in this class.

Macmillan came determined to tell Eisenhower that because of sagging finances at home, Britain must retrench.

The United States so far has not been fully and officially informed of Britain's plans. Washington knows Britain in the next year will call home some 13,000 of the 80,000 men it has in West Germany, an announced plan.

Qualified informants said Britain also is planning to withdraw most of its 5,000 troops in South Korea, but the United States has not had official information of this, or of what will happen to British commitments in Hong Kong, Singapore, Malaya and Libya.

The Americans do not expect any early British cuts of importance in Cyprus, Malta and Gibraltar. But they want firm information from Macmillan covering all such points.

Chicago Deb Is Bride Of Vanderbilt

CHICAGO (AP)—A former Chicago debutante, who had ambitions for a stage career, has become the third wife of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, multi-millionaire sportsman, her parents disclosed Wednesday.

Vanderbilt, 44-year-old heir to one of America's greatest fortunes and Jean Harvey, 20, member of a socially prominent and pioneer Chicago family, were married in Mexico City March 12, her parents said.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Daggett Harvey, said none of the family members attended the wedding. She added that Vanderbilt and his bride now are in Florida and probably will live in his Long Island, N. Y., home.

Vanderbilt, owner of Native Dancer among other famed race horses, was divorced last December by Mrs. Jeanne Murray Vanderbilt in Gooding, Idaho. They had two children. His first marriage, to the former Manuela Hudson in 1938, ended in divorce in 1942. They had a daughter.

In recent months Miss Harvey had been in New York City studying dramatics in preparation for a stage career and Vanderbilt had been her frequent escort.

2 Die In Crash; 3 Electrocuted In Rescue Attempt

MAHNOMEN, Minn. (AP) — Two persons were killed today when their car sheared off a power pole and three would-be rescuers were electrocuted in attempts to remove the dead and injured from the wreckage.

Killed when their car went into a ditch and struck the pole were William E. Schultz, 28, of Winger, Minn., the driver, and Donald Haugen, 21, also of Winger.

The first car on the scene was driven by Marvin Duncan Jr., 18, Fosston, Minn. Both he and his passenger, Arnold Rolf, 18, of Fosston, were killed by electric shock when they went to the Schultz car. The same fate met Clark Hoidahl, 21, also of Winger, who came along in another car and also sought to aid the accident victims.

Cancer Fight Sees 'Exciting' Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Exciting" progress in medical studies of viruses as a possible cause and cure of cancer has been reported to Congress.

Among other things, Congress has been told that medical researchers of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases have now been able to "train" certain virus strains capable of destroying living human cancers growing in rats.

And Dr. John R. Heller, director of the National Cancer Institute, described virus findings as "very exciting in the last year or so." He said research has learned that certain virus strains can "literally knock a hole" in some forms of cancer.

'Taper-Off' Plan For Oldsters Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Health, Education and Welfare Department says it is trying to work out a "taper-off" system of retirement to make aging employes happier and more useful.

Rufus E. Miles Jr., the department's director of administration, mentioned the plan to a House Appropriations Subcommittee.

Miles said the department wants "to explore the possibility of new ways within government of having older people taper off on their jobs rather than come up to the end and retire all of a sudden" and "to make better use of people as they get into the later years."

Teamster Aide And Organizer May Be Called

Senate Probers Hear Of Auto Bought For Official's Girl Friend

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Enquirer said today it has learned that William Presser of Cleveland, president of the Ohio Conference of Teamsters, and Ralph Vanni of Detroit, a Teamsters organizer, are "high on the list" of witnesses likely to be called before the Senate Rackets Investigation Committee in Washington.

Presser visited Cincinnati recently in connection with a protest raised by Teamsters' Joint Council No. 26 against Vanni's union activities.

Presser has been administrator of Teamsters' Local 114, Bakery Drivers of America, of Cincinnati since it was put into trusteeship by the International Union 17 months ago.

Spokesmen for Local 114 said Presser has advised them he would back their demands for an end to the trusteeship which was set up by James Hoffa, another high-ranking Teamster official who is under fire by Senate investigators.

In Cleveland, it was reported Wednesday that Presser has been ordered to appear before a federal grand jury in New York Friday. Presser asserted he had no idea why he was called.

* * *

THE FEDERAL subpoena, however, said Presser would be questioned about an alleged conspiracy to commit an offense against or to defraud the government.

In Columbus, an Akron state senator today asked the Ohio Legislature to petition Congress to take immediate steps against the Teamsters Union.

Sen. Fred W. Danner, a Republican, offered a resolution urging Congress to take action to permit members of the teamsters "and others similarly situated" to withdraw from their union without jeopardizing their jobs.

The resolution also urges that funds of the union be impounded until the investigation is ended "and positive protective measures enacted."

And in Toledo, a top Teamsters official said the union, the largest in the world, "is prepared nationally to spend millions of dollars to start a vigorous organizing campaign."

Chicago's Teen-Age Gangs Operate Like Old Mobsters

CHICAGO (AP) — Teen-age gangs now are producing Chicago headlines of the same type the adult mobsters did in the past. And a crime official said that "the only people you can blame are their parents."

The headlines are over stories of crimes of violence—such as the recent slayings of a boy in a hammer attack and a man in a motel robbery.

"There's no use burying our heads in the sand," comments Walter Devereux, chief investigator of the Chicago Crime Commission. "This city is not safe to roam in and it's getting worse."

But the juvenile division of the Police Department says that, on the basis of the current rate, it doubts that the crime rate for 1957 will be much higher than 1956.

During 1956 there were 12,439 cases noted by the division. The statistics included: larceny of automobiles, 747 burglary, 614; robberies (mostly strong arm), 229.

The bulk of the others were in the minor class. The record shows that 4,845 of the complaints were handled by "station adjustment."

Such things as quarreling, ringing doorbells and annoying the neighbors that got no farther than an area police station.

But there have been a number of instances of teen-age gang action. Such as these:

An elderly shoe repair man and five youths were viciously attacked by a gang of some 30 toughs, armed with bottles and knives, apparently without provocation. The victims were hospitalized.

Two gangs wrecked a restaurant in an outbreak of rivalry and when thrown out, later returned, fired a bullet through a window and wounded a customer.

A gang preyed on high school pupils, extorting 50 cents to $2 weekly as protection money.

Another gang specialized in stealing automobile tires and during a one-year period stole $16,000 worth of tires besides committing five other burglaries.

Thirteen white toughs are under indictment for murder in the hammer slaying of Alvin Palmer, a Negro teenager who was attacked as he stood at a South Side bus stop.

Four other teen-agers have been indicted for murder in the fatal shooting of Charles Strysky, 48, during a robbery of his motel.

And so the reports go, day after day.

Scientists Tell of Historic Surgery to Separate Twins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists have told of an historic operation in which they separated twin baby girls who had been joined at the forehead.

The House Appropriations Committee, which made public the story today, was told this was "the first operation of this kind in which, at least until the present time, both twins have survived."

Dr. Pearce Bailey, director of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness, gave the account of the intricate operation performed last December on Virginia Kate and Teresa Kay Bunton of Mountain City, Tenn. The twins then were 4 months old.

Today, a little over three months after the operation, the twins were reported in "good health." They still are at the clinical center of the National Institues of Health in nearby Bethesda, Md., where the surgery was performed.

There have been a number of cases where Siamese twins, joined at the head, were separated only to have at least one of the twins die. One of the most famous of these cases involved the Brodie twins of Chicago. Rodney Dee Brodie survived, but Roger Lee, his twin brother, died.

Bailey, testifying on appropriations requests of the Public Health Service, told the committee:

"The only remedy, the only hope of salvation of the twins themselves, was surgical separation. They could not have lived, even in this age of antibiotics, linked together as they were."

Bailey said:

"The right frontal lobes of the twins appeared mashed together but there were no brain connections between them. There was considerable crossing of some large arteries which we cut and clamped, and in one instance, there was considerable bleeding from a large artery that led from the lower frontal lobe of Virginia into the frontal lobe of Teresa. We succeeded in stopping that.

"Then we made a larger channel in the bone and the twins gradually began to rotate outwardly, more and more until they were completely separated."

Bailey said a hole left in the frontal part of each head "can be remedied later by surgery."

The doctor said Teresa is "quite an alert child," and added:

"The outlook as to intelligence is still a little bit guarded in the case of Virginia, but we believe that we can expect a normal development for Teresa."

Present corporation rates include a 30 per cent normal tax on earnings up to $25,000, and a 22 per cent surtax on all the rest for a total of 52 per cent.

Meanwhile, the House cut deeper than its appropriations committee had recommended in slicing nearly $538 million from a bill to finance 18 separate federal agencies.

The reduction, as approved by the House on a voice vote, was 9 per cent below the $5,923,195,000 President Eisenhower had requested to run these independent agencies in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Last Friday, the Appropriations Committee had suggested the total in the bill be whacked by $516,993,300. But the House went beyond this, trimming another $21 million off requests.

Coal Pipeline Clogs Up On Steep Hill

CARROLLTON (AP)—One reason the world's longest coal pipeline clogged and won't open on April 9 as scheduled is that pumps wouldn't force the slurry up a steep hill south of here, the Cleveland Plain Dealer reports.

In a deep wooded ravine about five miles south of here, a Plain Dealer reporter located a hastily excavated pond containing tons of slurry emptied from the clogged line. The slurry is a mixture of powdered coal and water, about half and half. Some of the coal particles in the mixture were larger than the line could carry up a steep grade, the newspaper said it had learned.

Since the 108-mile - long, $12½ million pipeline broke down in its first major test four weeks ago, Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co. has rebuffed newsmen's attempts to find out what went wrong.

The line is of 10¾-inch steel welded in 40-foot links and runs from the southeastern Ohio coal fields to the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.'s generating plant on Lake Erie's shore. It is designed to handle 150 tons of coal an hour or 1,300,000 tons a year at a saving of up to 50 per cent over rail freight costs.

The bog-down came in the first leg of the pipeline south of Cadiz and the second pumping station at Carrollton.

He also was fined $200 and costs and his driver's license was suspended for three years.

Mideast Crisis Heads List Of Ike-Mac Parley Topics

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (AP) President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan assigned top priority to the Middle East crisis, including Suez and Egyptian-Israel problems, at the opening of their formal negotiations here today.

The session opened in the drawing room of the Mid-Ocean Club where chiefs of the two governments met with advisers.

Real start of the top level quest for fullscale restoration of the British - American partnership in world affairs began at a three-hour dinner Wednesday night, however, when the President and Prime Minister and secretaries of state reviewed world issues.

As a result of that talk, the Middle East crisis was put first as a topic of discussion.

While no announcement was made, it seemed probable that second position for discussion would be Britain's plans for cutbacks in its worldwide military commitments.

American officials foresaw a serious possibility the United States may have to make new commitments of its own to keep the free world's military guard up in the face of continual Soviet expansion.

A meshing of U.S. and British defense plans was assured a high place on the agenda, as was the tangle of urgent Middle East issues involving both countries.

Diplomats said the President and Prime Minister, together with Secretary of State Dulles, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and other officials, probably would hold two meetings daily through Saturday.

* * *

THE TWO government chiefs in statements made on their arrival Wednesday both expressed confidence their Bermuda meeting would result in a strengthening of British - American cooperation in world affairs.

Their advisers agreed privately that this hope can be realized only if the two men can arrive at agreements or better understandings on some very tough problems.

The issue of Britain's military cutbacks is in this class.

Macmillan came determined to tell Eisenhower that because of sagging finances at home, Britain must retrench.

The United States so far has not been fully and officially informed of Britain's plans. Washington knows Britain in the next year will call home some 13,000 of the 80,000 men it has in West Germany, an announced plan.

Qualified informants said Britain also is planning to withdraw most of its 5,000 troops in South Korea, but the United States has not had official information of this, or of what will happen to British commitments in Hong Kong, Singapore, Malaya and Libya.

The Americans do not expect any early British cuts of importance in Cyprus, Malta and Gibraltar. But they want firm information from Macmillan covering all such points.

Chicago Deb Is Bride Of Vanderbilt

CHICAGO (AP)—A former Chicago debutante, who had ambitions for a stage career, has become the third wife of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, multi-millionaire sportsman, her parents disclosed Wednesday.

Vanderbilt, 44-year-old heir to one of America's greatest fortunes and Jean Harvey, 20, member of a socially prominent and pioneer Chicago family, were married in Mexico City March 12, her parents said.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Daggett Harvey, said none of the family members attended the wedding. She added that Vanderbilt and his bride now are in Florida and probably will live in his Long Island, N. Y., home.

Vanderbilt, owner of Native Dancer among other famed race horses, was divorced last December by Mrs. Jeanne Murray Vanderbilt in Gooding, Idaho. They had two children. His first marriage, to the former Manuela Hudson in 1938, ended in divorce in 1942. They had a daughter.

In recent months Miss Harvey had been in New York City studying dramatics in preparation for a stage career and Vanderbilt had been her frequent escort.

2 Die In Crash; 3 Electrocuted In Rescue Attempt

MAHNOMEN, Minn. (AP) — Two persons were killed today when their car sheared off a power pole and three would-be rescuers were electrocuted in attempts to remove the dead and injured from the wreckage.

The first car on the scene was driven by Marvin Duncan Jr., 18, Fosston, Minn. Both he and his passenger, Arnold Rolf, 18, of Fosston, were killed by electric shock when they went to the Schultz car. The same fate met Clark Hoidahl, 21, also of Winger, who came along in another car and also sought to aid the accident victims.

'Taper-Off' Plan For Oldsters Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Health, Education and Welfare Department says it is trying to work out a "taper-off" system of retirement to make aging employes happier and more useful.

Rufus E. Miles Jr., the department's director of administration, mentioned the plan to a House Appropriations Subcommittee.

Miles said the department wants "to explore the possibility of new ways within government of having older people taper off on their jobs rather than come up to the end and retire all of a sudden" and "to make better use of people as they get into the later years."

Cancer Fight Sees 'Exciting' Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Exciting" progress in medical studies of viruses as a possible cause and cure of cancer has been reported to Congress.

Among other things, Congress has been told that medical researchers of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases have now been able to "train" certain virus strains capable of destroying living human cancers growing in rats.

And Dr. John R. Heller, director of the National Cancer Institute, described virus findings as "very exciting in the last year or so." He said research has learned that certain virus strains can "literally knock a hole" in some forms of cancer.

Teamster Aide And Organizer May Be Called

Senate Probers Hear Of Auto Bought For Official's Girl Friend

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Enquirer said today it has learned that William Presser of Cleveland, president of the Ohio Conference of Teamsters, and Ralph Vanni of Detroit, a Teamsters organizer, are "high on the list" of witnesses likely to be called before the Senate Rackets Investigation Committee in Washington.

Presser visited Cincinnati recently in connection with a protest raised by Teamsters' Joint Council No. 26 against Vanni's union activities.

Presser has been administrator of Teamsters' Local 114, Bakery Drivers of America, of Cincinnati since it was put into trusteeship by the International Union 17 months ago.

Spokesmen for Local 114 said Presser has advised them he would back their demands for an end to the trusteeship which was set up by James Hoffa, another high-ranking Teamster official who is under fire by Senate investigators.

In Cleveland, it was reported Wednesday that Presser has been ordered to appear before a federal grand jury in New York Friday. Presser asserted he had no idea why he was called.

* * *

THE FEDERAL subpoena, however, said Presser would be questioned about an alleged conspiracy to commit an offense against or to defraud the government.

In Columbus, an Akron state senator today asked the Ohio Legislature to petition Congress to take immediate steps against the Teamsters Union.

Sen. Fred W. Danner, a Republican, offered a resolution urging Congress to take action to permit members of the teamsters "and others similarly situated" to withdraw from their union without jeopardizing their jobs.

The resolution also urges that funds of the union be impounded until the investigation is ended "and positive protective measures enacted."

And in Toledo, a top Teamsters official said the union, the largest in the world, "is prepared nationally to spend millions of dollars to start a vigorous organizing campaign."

Chicago's Teen-Age Gangs Operate Like Old Mobsters

CHICAGO (AP) — Teen-age gangs now are producing Chicago headlines of the same type the adult mobsters did in the past. And a crime official said that "the only people you can blame are their parents."

The headlines are over stories of crimes of violence—such as the recent slayings of a boy in a hammer attack and a man in a motel robbery.

"There's no use burying our heads in the sand," comments Walter Devereux, chief investigator of the Chicago Crime Commission. "This city is not safe to roam in and it's getting worse."

But the juvenile division of the Police Department says that, on the basis of the current rate, it doubts that the crime rate for 1957 will be much higher than 1956.

During 1956 there were 12,439 cases noted by the division. The statistics included: larceny of automobiles, 747 burglary, 614; robberies (mostly strong arm), 229.

The bulk of the others were in the minor class. The record shows that 4,845 of the complaints were handled by "station adjustment."

Such things as quarreling, ringing doorbells and annoying the neighbors that got no farther than an area police station.

But there have been a number of instances of teen-age gang action. Such as these:

An elderly shoe repair man and five youths were viciously attacked by a gang of some 30 toughs, armed with bottles and knives, apparently without provocation. The victims were hospitalized.

Two gangs wrecked a restaurant in an outbreak of rivalry and when thrown out, later returned, fired a bullet through a window and wounded a customer.

A gang preyed on high school pupils, extorting 50 cents to $2 weekly as protection money.

Another gang specialized in stealing automobile tires and during a one-year period stole $16,000 worth of tires besides committing five other burglaries.

Thirteen white toughs are under indictment for murder in the hammer slaying of Alvin Palmer, a Negro teenager who was attacked as he stood at a South Side bus stop.

Four other teen-agers have been indicted for murder in the fatal shooting of Charles Strysky, 48, during a robbery of his motel.

And so the reports go, day after day.

Scientists Tell of Historic Surgery to Separate Twins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists have told of an historic operation in which they separated twin baby girls who had been joined at the forehead.

The House Appropriations Committee, which made public the story today, was told this was "the first operation of this kind in which, at least until the present time, both twins have survived."

Dr. Pearce Bailey, director of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness, gave the account of the intricate operation performed last December on Virginia Kate and Teresa Kay Bunton of Mountain City, Tenn. The twins then were 4 months old.

Today, a little over three months after the operation, the twins were reported in "good health." They still are at the clinical center of the National Institues of Health in nearby Bethesda, Md., where the surgery was performed.

There have been a number of cases where Siamese twins, joined at the head, were separated only to have at least one of the twins die. One of the most famous of these cases involved the Brodie twins of Chicago. Rodney Dee Brodie survived, but Roger Lee, his twin brother, died.

Bailey, testifying on appropriations requests of the Public Health Service, told the committee:

"The only remedy, the only hope of salvation of the twins themselves, was surgical separation. They could not have lived, even in this age of antibiotics, linked together as they were."

Bailey said:

"The right frontal lobes of the twins appeared mashed together but there were no brain connections between them. There was considerable crossing of some large arteries which we cut and clamped, and in one instance, there was considerable bleeding from a large artery that led from the lower frontal lobe of Virginia into the frontal lobe of Teresa. We succeeded in stopping that.

"Then we made a larger channel in the bone and the twins gradually began to rotate outwardly, more and more until they were completely separated."

Bailey said a hole left in the frontal part of each head "can be remedied later by surgery."

The doctor said Teresa is "quite an alert child," and added:

"The outlook as to intelligence is still a little bit guarded in the case of Virginia, but we believe that we can expect a normal development for Teresa."

Service Officer Explains Bonus Requirements For Next Of Kin

James Shea, Pickaway County veterans service officer, today reminded next of kin of deceased Korean veterans that they are required to have special application forms in order to apply for state bonus pay.

Those eligible must write a request to C. W. Goble, director of the Korean Conflict Fund, 293 E. Long St., Columbus 15, O. They will receive a special K-2 form for application.

Shea said that persons desiring K-2 forms may come to his office where he will help them draft a letter request. He also noted that next of kin applicants should come to his office for assistance after the forms are received.

The service officer explained that next of kin are defined as widows, parents and children of deceased veterans. Brothers, sisters or other relatives are not included, he added.

* * *

IF THERE is no living wife or husband of the deceased veteran, the bonus will go to the living child or children. If there is no wife or husband or living children, the benefits will go to the living parent or parents.

The term parents applies to those who lawfully adopted such deceased veterans, or persons who stood parents to a veteran for one year immediately preceding his entry into service.

The term wife refers to the wife of a deceased veteran who was lawfully married to him preceding his death although she has married again.

The term child when used in referring to the child of a deceased veteran shall mean the natural child, irrespective of age, of such a veteran—a child born as the issue of a lawful marriage to which the deceased vet was a party.

This term also means a person who was legally adopted by the veteran. It also means the illegitimate child of a deceased female veteran, but not the illegitimate child of a male veteran unless such male veteran had acknowledged the child as his own.

In order to be eligible to apply, Shea explained that next of kin must have the original letter from the U. S. Government giving notification that the veteran was killed, or a copy of the death certificate if the veteran died after his separation from service.

If a wife makes application she must have a copy of her marriage certificate. If children apply they must have a copy of their own birth certificate. Parents who file must have their son or daughter's birth certificate.

Farmers May Sign Now For Corn Acreage

Notices are now being mailed to eligible farmers relative to including additional corn acreage in the Soil Bank Acreage Reserve, Wayne Luckhart, chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced today.

He emphasized that farmers "eligible" for over-the-limit signup are only those who have already signed 1957 corn acreage reserve agreements and who indicated at the time of signing that they wished to exceed the initial program limitations on acreage.

The initial farm limit on corn acreage to be included in the acreage reserve was 20 acres or 30 percent of their farm allotments whichever was larger.

Eligible farmers have 10 days after the mailing of the notice, the deadline being March 29, in which to enter new agreements covering not more than the specified additional acreage.

Chairman Luckhart pointed out that funds will be available in Pickaway County for acceptance of all additional acreage that was originally offered.

* * *

IN SOME of the larger corn-producing counties — those with total acreage allotments of 25,000 acres or more—the acreage accepted for the reserve may be limited to 60 percent of the county allotment if state and county ASC committees believe that signing up a larger acreage would adversely affect the county's farm economy.

Under the original corn acreage signup, Pickaway County farmers signed 265 agreements, covering 3,951.7 acres of corn land.

College Glee Club Will Give Concert At First Methodist

The Men's Glee Club of Asbury College, Wilmore, Kentucky, will present a concert of sacred music Friday evening in First Methodist Church.

Considered one of the finest organizations of its kind in the nation, this outstanding ensemble is making its twenty-second annual tour. Besides appearing in concerts in many parts of the country, the group has been heard over the CBS radio network, as well as other broadcasts and television programs.

The Glee Club presents a varied concert of sacred classics, Negro spirituals and hymns. Members, who represent 18 states, are carefully selected from a large group of men who audition yearly for membership in this organization.

Only a part of the club is chosen to tour. Traveling personnel is selected after careful observation by the director and exacting examinations. Character, attitude and personality are also carefully considered in the selection of members of this unique group.

Marvin G. Dean, who has been on the faculty of several outstanding schools, including the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Michigan, is the director. He is professor of voice and director of choral groups at Asbury.

The concert, which begins at 8 p. m. is open to the public. There will be no admission charge, but a free will offering will be taken.

Circleville Musicians Receive Honors At Capital University

Five Circleville High School musicians received A-1 ratings for their participation in auditions conducted by the Ohio Music Education Association. The competitions were held Saturday at Capitol University in Columbus.

A A-1 rating is the highest of five ratings made of solo and ensemble performances. It signifies an outstanding performance with very few technical errors.

Those receiving the top ratings were, Joe Caldwell, Carolyn Ferguson, Edith Jones, Betty Lou Leist, and Susan Stocklen.

In addition, Carol Ann Johnson, Lois Wittich, and members of the girl's sextet who were Beverly Allen, Sue Anderson, Brenda Brown, Betty Lou Leist, Phyllis McFee, and Lois Wittich, received A-2 ratings for their performances.

Caldwell received his A-2 rating by playing "Capricio" with the alto-saxophone and "My Regards" with the baritone horn. Carolyn Ferguson earned her honors with a bassoon solo, "Asleep in the Deep." Edith Jones, a mezzo-soprano, sang Shubert's "Ava Maria." Susan Stocklen and Betty Lou Leist were piano soloists, playing respectively a Sonata by Scarletti and Debussy's "Arabesque No. 1."

Lois Wittich sang "Pretty Margaret", a soprano solo. Carol Ann Johnson played "Arabesque No. 1" at the piano. The sextet rendered two numbers, "I Heard a Forest Praying" and "Robin in the Rain."

Judgement of the performances was under the direction of Fred Brobst, Capitol University faculty member.

Local Wildlife Group Conducts Public Hearing On Game Laws

Approximately 42 persons last night attended a public hearing here on fish and game laws for 1958. The session was held by the Pickaway County Farmers and Sportsmen's Association in Memorial Hall.

Purpose of the meeting was to give local hunters and fishermen an opportunity to express their views on wildlife laws for the coming year.

The group here made several motions on changing present laws, which if considered favorably at district and state hearings, may have some bearing on regulations for 1958.

Some of the motions for changes were as follows:

* * *

LIBERALIZED fishing laws should provide for gigging to be closed from November 1 to March 1; hunting season, other than for squirrels, should open at 8 a. m. daily instead of 9 a. m.; shotgun season on deer be between December 10 and January 1 and last for four or more days; bow and arrow season for deer be from November 1 to December 1; duck season start on November 25.

The local group also went on record as being in favor of having a season on quail and doves in certain sections of Ohio. Pickaway County will not be included in these sections.

Following discussion of fish and game laws, the group named Walter Richards and Ray Rader as delegate and alternate respectively to represent Pickaway County farmers at the district game hearing to be held in Chillicothe next month. Bob Wolf and Ray Rader were selected as representative and alternate for area sportsmen.

Wildlife officials present for the meeting were as follows: Ted Overholser, assistant law enforcement officer for this district; Ray Reithmiller, fish management section; Jack Kamman, game management section; and Clarence Francis, county game protector.

Family Life Seen Aid To Mental Health

CINCINNATI (AP) — The trend toward "do-it-yourself" projects in the home constitutes good mental health for families, Mrs. Van Hook Stubbs of Wortham, Tex., told the 1957 National Health Forum today.

Mrs. Stubbs, chairman of the Mental Health Division of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, discussed "Promoting Health in the Home" before representatives of 59 organizations attending the forum.

"Good mental health produces a democratic family," she said. "In this democratic family, all members have a feeling of belonging and being needed. Members do not try to dominate or control; rather each member is set free to develop his own personality. Yet, parents, in a very wise and subtle manner, must give guidance when the fundamental pattern of good living seems to be in jeopardy."

Similarly, Mrs. Stubbs suggested that adult members of the ideal family "set the pattern for acceptance of authority. Do we exceed the speed limit on a fine stretch of road? Do we pay half fare for a small-sized 13-year-old? Do we report an accident in such a way as to exonerate ourselves from all responsibility?"

Referring to the do-it-yourself trend as "good mental health" for families, Mrs. Stubbs said:

"True, parents can complete the project in record time perhaps, but how will John learn if he is not allowed the opportunity by trial and error?"

Top Officers Of Farm Loan At Celebration

Two officers of the Pickaway County National Farm Loan Association are to be in Louisville, Ky., to represent that organization at the 40th anniversary celebration of the federal land bank system.

They are Ralph May, Circleville, president, and Miss Ethel Brobst, secretary-treasurer.

The celebration will be held tomorrow in the Sheraton-Seelbach Hotel, where the federal land bank's first board of directors was sworn into office 40 years ago. Mrs. Ralph May will be a guest at the celebration.

Farmers become stockholder-members of their local national farm loan association when they obtain federal land bank loans to finance the ownership of their farms. The Pickaway County association has 41 farmer-members who own $14.140 of voting stock in their association.

* * *

THE ASSOCIATION, in turn, has this same amount of stock invested in the voting stock of the federal land bank of Louisville.

Once largely capitalized by the federal government, the federal land bank—with nearly $150,000,000 in loans to farmers—has for many years been entirely owned by the 101 national farm loan associations in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Speaker for the anniversary meeting will be Thomas A. Maxwell, deputy governor of the Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D. C.

Service Officer Explains Bonus Requirements For Next Of Kin

James Shea, Pickaway County veterans service officer, today reminded next of kin of deceased Korean veterans that they are required to have special application forms in order to apply for state bonus pay.

Those eligible must write a request to C. W. Goble, director of the Korean Conflict Fund, 293 E. Long St., Columbus 15, O. They will receive a special K-2 form for application.

Shea said that persons desiring K-2 forms may come to his office where he will help them draft a letter request. He also noted that next of kin applicants should come to his office for assistance after the forms are received.

The service officer explained that next of kin are defined as widows, parents and children of deceased veterans. Brothers, sisters or other relatives are not included, he added.

* * *

IF THERE is no living wife or husband of the deceased veteran, the bonus will go to the living child or children. If there is no wife or husband or living children, the benefits will go to the living parent or parents.

The term parents applies to those who lawfully adopted such deceased veterans, or persons who stood parents to a veteran for one year immediately preceding his entry into service.

The term wife refers to the wife of a deceased veteran who was lawfully married to him preceding his death although she has married again.

The term child when used in referring to the child of a deceased veteran shall mean the natural child, irrespective of age, of such a veteran—a child born as the issue of a lawful marriage to which the deceased vet was a party.

This term also means a person who was legally adopted by the veteran. It also means the illegitimate child of a deceased female veteran, but not the illegitimate child of a male veteran unless such male veteran had acknowledged the child as his own.

In order to be eligible to apply, Shea explained that next of kin must have the original letter from the U. S. Government giving notification that the veteran was killed, or a copy of the death certificate if the veteran died after his separation from service.

If a wife makes application she must have a copy of her marriage certificate. If children apply they must have a copy of their own birth certificate. Parents who file must have their son or daughter's birth certificate.

Within hours, Greek and Greek Cypriot leaders declared their opposition. The Turks were silent.

Farmers May Sign Now For Corn Acreage

Notices are now being mailed to eligible farmers relative to including additional corn acreage in the Soil Bank Acreage Reserve, Wayne Luckhart, chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, announced today.

He emphasized that farmers "eligible" for over-the-limit sign-up are only those who have already signed 1957 corn acreage reserve agreements and who indicated at the time of signing that they wished to exceed the initial program limitations on acreage.

The initial farm limit on corn acreage to be included in the acreage reserve was 20 acres or 30 percent of their farm allotments whichever was larger.

Eligible farmers have 10 days after the mailing of the notice, the deadline being March 29, in which to enter new agreements covering not more than the specified additional acreage.

Chairman Luckhart pointed out that funds will be available in Pickaway County for acceptance of all additional acreage that was originally offered.

* * *

IN SOME of the larger corn-producing counties — those with total acreage allotments of 25,000 acres or more—the acreage accepted for the reserve may be limited to 60 percent of the county allotment if state and county ASC committees believe that signing up a larger acreage would adversely affect the county's farm economy.

Under the original corn acreage signup, Pickaway County farmers signed 265 agreements, covering 3,951.7 acres of corn land.

College Glee Club Will Give Concert At First Methodist

The Men's Glee Club of Asbury College, Wilmore, Kentucky, will present a concert of sacred music Friday evening in First Methodist Church.

Considered one of the finest organizations of its kind in the nation, this outstanding ensemble is making its twenty-second annual tour. Besides appearing in concerts in many parts of the country, the group has been heard over the CBS radio network, as well as other broadcasts and television programs.

The Glee Club presents a varied concert of sacred classics, Negro spirituals and hymns. Members, who represent 18 states, are carefully selected from a large group of men who audition yearly for membership in this organization.

Only a part of the club is chosen to tour. Traveling personnel is selected after careful observation by the director and exacting examinations. Character, attitude and personality are also carefully considered in the selection of members of this unique group.

Marvin G. Dean, who has been on the faculty of several outstanding schools, including the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Michigan, is the director. He is professor of voice and director of choral groups at Asbury.

The concert, which begins at 8 p. m. is open to the public. There will be no admission charge, but a free will offering will be taken.

Circleville Musicians Receive Honors At Capital University

Five Circleville High School musicians received A-1 ratings for their participation in auditions conducted by the Ohio Music Education Association. The competitions were held Saturday at Capitol University in Columbus.

A A-1 rating is the highest of five ratings made of solo and ensemble performances. It signifies an outstanding performance with very few technical errors.

Those receiving the top ratings were, Joe Caldwell, Carolyn Ferguson, Edith Jones, Betty Lou Leist, and Susan Stocklen.

In addition, Carol Ann Johnson, Lois Wittich, and members of the girl's sextet who were Beverly Allen, Sue Anderson, Brenda Brown, Betty Lou Leist, Phyllis McFee, and Lois Wittich, received A-2 ratings for their performances.

Caldwell received his A-2 rating by playing "Capricio" with the alto-saxophone and "My Regards" with the baritone horn. Carolyn Ferguson earned her honors with a bassoon solo, "Asleep in the Deep." Edith Jones, a mezzo-soprano, sang Shubert's "Ava Maria." Susan Stocklen and Betty Lou Leist were piano soloists, playing respectively a Sonata by Scarletti and Debussy's "Arabesque No. 1."

Lois Wittich sang "Pretty Margaret", a soprano solo. Carol Ann Johnson played "Arabesque No. 1" at the piano. The sextet rendered two numbers, "I Heard a Forest Praying" and "Robin in the Rain."

Judgement of the performances was under the direction of Fred Brobst, Capitol University faculty member.

Local Wildlife Group Conducts Public Hearing On Game Laws

Approximately 42 persons last night attended a public hearing here on fish and game laws for 1958. The session was held by the Pickaway County Farmers and Sportsmen's Association in Memorial Hall.

Purpose of the meeting was to give local hunters and fishermen an opportunity to express their views on wildlife laws for the coming year.

The group here made several motions on changing present laws, which if considered favorably at district and state hearings, may have some bearing on regulations for 1958.

Some of the motions for changes were as follows:

* * *

LIBERALIZED fishing laws should provide for gigging to be closed from November 1 to March 1; hunting season, other than for squirrels, should open at 8 a. m. daily instead of 9 a. m.; shotgun season on deer be between December 10 and January 1 and last for four or more days; bow and arrow season for deer be from November 1 to December 1; duck season start on November 25.

The local group also went on record as being in favor of having a season on quail and doves in certain sections of Ohio. Pickaway County will not be included in these sections.

Following discussion of fish and game laws, the group named Walter Richards and Ray Rader as delegate and alternate respectively to represent Pickaway County farmers at the district game hearing to be held in Chillicothe next month. Bob Wolf and Ray Rader were selected as representative and alternate for area sportsmen.

Wildlife officials present for the meeting were as follows: Ted Overholser, assistant law enforcement officer for this district; Ray Reithmiller, fish management section; Jack Kamman, game management section; and Clarence Francis, county game protector.

Family Life Seen Aid To Mental Health

CINCINNATI (AP) — The trend toward "do-it-yourself" projects in the home constitutes good mental health for families, Mrs. Van Hook Stubbs of Wortham, Tex., told the 1957 National Health Forum today.

Mrs. Stubbs, chairman of the Mental Health Division of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, discussed "Promoting Health in the Home" before representatives of 59 organizations attending the forum.

"Good mental health produces a democratic family," she said. "In this democratic family, all members have a feeling of belonging and being needed. Members do not try to dominate or control; rather each member is set free to develop his own personality. Yet, parents, in a very wise and subtle manner, must give guidance when the fundamental pattern of good living seems to be in jeopardy."

Similarly, Mrs. Stubbs suggested that adult members of the ideal family "set the pattern for acceptance of authority. Do we exceed the speed limit on a fine stretch of road? Do we pay half fare for a small-sized 13-year-old? Do we report an accident in such a way as to exonerate ourselves from all responsibility?"

Referring to the do-it-yourself trend as "good mental health" for families, Mrs. Stubbs said:

"True, parents can complete the project in record time perhaps, but how will John learn if he is not allowed the opportunity by trial and error?"

TB Victim Gets Prison Sentence

AKRON (AP)—Wilbert Roper, 35, given a 50-50 chance to recover from tuberculosis, was sentenced to life in prison for second degree murder today.

Roper sat in a wheel chair in a room in a local tuberculosis sanitorium as Common Pleas Judge Stephen C. Colopy pronounced sentence. Rober had pleaded guilty to stabbing his wife, Bernice, during a quarrel last October.

He will be transferred to Ohio Penitentiary Friday, where he will be kept in the prison hospital.

Top Officers Of Farm Loan At Celebration

Two officers of the Pickaway County National Farm Loan Association are to be in Louisville, Ky., to represent that organization at the 40th anniversary celebration of the federal land bank system.

They are Ralph May, Circleville, president, and Miss Ethel Brobst, secretary-treasurer.

The celebration will be held tomorrow in the Sheraton-Seelbach Hotel, where the federal land bank's first board of directors was sworn into office 40 years ago. Mrs. Ralph May will be a guest at the celebration.

Farmers become stockholder-members of their local national farm loan association when they obtain federal land bank loans to finance the ownership of their farms. The Pickaway County association has 41 farmer-members who own $14.140 of voting stock in their association.

* * *

THE ASSOCIATION, in turn, has this same amount of stock invested in the voting stock of the federal land bank of Louisville.

Once largely capitalized by the federal government, the federal land bank—with nearly $150,000,000 in loans to farmers—has for many years been entirely owned by the 101 national farm loan associations in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Speaker for the anniversary meeting will be Thomas A. Maxwell, deputy governor of the Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D. C.

Internal Revenue Office Asking Letup In Flood Of Calls, Letters

The Columbus Internal Revenue District office, which covers Pickaway County, is gearing itself for a major effort in the processing of tax refund checks, Director Nathaniel Looker said today.

"We expect to receive and process approximately 325,000 of them by May 31," he said. "This means we must average over 20,000 a week in order to meet that deadline."

Looker urged that taxpayers refrain from writing letters or making telephone calls at this time, in an effort to determine the status of their refunds. He explained:

"All available regular and a limited number of temproary employees are being used in this project. The goal we have set is difficult of accomplishment—it will be doubly so if folks burden us with extra letters or calls.

* * *

"BECAUSE of the volume and the several operations involved, it is virtually impossible to locate a particular return at a given time, if it is in process. An arithmetic verification and inspection for completeness must be made. An audit of certain returns is required. Card Forms 1040-A must be verified and the tax computed. Estimated tax credits must be matched with the returns.

"All these steps plus many others have to be taken before a refund may be scheduled to the Disbursement Office in Cleveland for payment. The length of time taken by the latter is, of necessity, unpredictable at the peak-load period."

Looker warned that telephone calls and letters of inquiry definitely slow down the refunding program by diverting the services of personnel from the processing of returns to answering the calls and letters as well as possible under the circumstances.

"These answers are bound to be unsatisfactory both to us and to the taxpayers since it is possible to locate only a minimum of such returns until after the bulk of the refunds are made," continued the director.

"It is not possible to handle returns in any particular order because in some instances, returns may be incomplete; in others, they must be returned to the taxpayer; and frequently, returns are unprocessable for some other reason.

"Thus if anything is wrong with a return, the taxpayer will hear from us," Looker said. "If he doesn't hear, he'll know we are processing the refund as fast as we can. If folks will be patient, their refunds will reach them within a reasonable time—in many instances, sooner than they expect."

574 Southwestern Ohio Pupils Enter Science Displays

OXFORD (AP)—Working exhibits ranging from a transistor to cancer research have been entered by 574 pupils from 10 southwestern Ohio counties in the 10th annual Miami University Science Day for high schools, scheduled here Saturday in cooperation with the Ohio Academy of Science.

Entry blanks have indicated the display will include a color TV explanation, a steam engine, a transistor, a telescope, various chemical reaction charts; extensive collections of butterflies, birds' eggs, rocks and fossils of southwestern Ohio, and numerous other examples of teen-agers' efforts to carry science study far beyond basic classroom requirements. The Miami exhibit serves as a qualifying show for Clinton, Adams, Brown, Butler, Clermont, Hamilton, Miami, Montgomery, Preble and Warren counties.

Cincinnati Retrial Nears Jury Action

CINCINNATI (AP)—The retrial of Denver Powell, 46, of El Centro, Calif., charged with the 1949 holdup-slaying of John Schreck, delicatessen operator, probably will go to a jury Friday.

One of the state's final rebuttal witnesses Wednesday was Donald Roney, assistant county prosecutor and investigator. He denied Powell's previous testimony that the state, through Roney, had offered leniency in exchange for a signed confession.

Illness of a juror at Powell's first trial last October caused the court to declare a mistrial.

Health Group OKs Legislative Plans

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Mental Health Assn. board of directors has adopted all recommendations of the group's legislative committee.

Mrs. Marion S. Wells, executive director of OMHA, said the committee had recommended legislation to establish a committee to study the clinic program in Ohio and make recommendations for facilitating the proper development of these services for the entire state.

The committee, Mrs. Wells said, also recommended support for a measure which would create a bureau of alcoholism.

Big Change Seen In City Planning

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A city planning expert predicts that highway construction over the next 20 years will change the character of metropolitan areas more than all the work of metropolitan planners since 1945.

John T. Howard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology associate professor, offered with his prophecy on the impact of the expanded federal highway construction program this lament:

"We are ill prepared, now that the new highways are upon us, to say where they should be built in the best interests of the metropolitan areas."

Some Sign Seen Ike To Ask For Powers To Curb Credit

WASHINGTON (AP)— Speculation sharpened today on whether President Eisenhower will ask Congress for standby powers to regulate consumer installment credit.

The odds seemed to be against it, for interest has been lukewarm lately. But it was spotlighted by the issuance Tuesday of a massive study prepared at Eisenhower's request by the staff of the Federal Reserve Board.

The researchers found that easy-payment buying of autos and consumer goods tends to be unruly. "The major influence," they said, "has been to add fuel to booms; it has less often been an aggravating factor during recessions."

The FRB staff found that the credit structure, though carrying a record 31½ billion dollars of installment debt, is less likely than in 1929 to collapse during a recession into defaults, foreclosures and repossessions. It nevertheless cautioned:

"The possibility of an episode of drastic and spiraling liquidation should not be dismissed."

The report is neutral on standby controls; it presents various conflicting views in its five volumes and 1,619 pages. The reserve board itself has taken no position though it presumably would administer any controls voted, as it does the margin buying of stock on the exchanges.

Eisenhower asked Congress 14 months ago to "consider" standby controls. That was just after the 1955 auto credit binge, when total soared by 5½ billion dollars.

The rate of rise abated last year without damage, and the issue has taken a back seat. Businessmen who have visited Eisenhower recently said he shows far less concern. Neither has any strong movement for controls developed in Congress.

The FBI study showed that 45 per cent of American families owe some installment debt.

Three times as many families with incomes over $10,000 now use installment credit as did so in 1952, the report found, even though 88 per cent of these debtors had liquid assets of $500 or more and presumably could have paid cash in many cases.

Some families evidently use installment credit as a form of saving, it was indicated; they save their liquid assets and buy goods on installments. The report added:

"It has become respectable to be a debtor, and the desire to own a home 'free and clear' is no longer as strong as it was in the past."

John Bunyan wrote part of "Pilgrim's Progress" while jailed in Bedford, England, for unlawful preaching.

Internal Revenue Office Asking Letup In Flood Of Calls, Letters

The Columbus Internal Revenue District office, which covers Pickaway County, is gearing itself for a major effort in the processing of tax refund checks, Director Nathaniel Looker said today.

"We expect to receive and process approximately 325,000 of them by May 31," he said. "This means we must average over 20,000 a week in order to meet that deadline."

Looker urged that taxpayers refrain from writing letters or making telephone calls at this time, in an effort to determine the status of their refunds. He explained:

"All available regular and a limited number of temproary employees are being used in this project. The goal we have set is difficult of accomplishment—it will be doubly so if folks burden us with extra letters or calls.

* * *

"BECAUSE of the volume and the several operations involved, it is virtually impossible to locate a particular return at a given time, if it is in process. An arithmetic verification and inspection for completeness must be made. An audit of certain returns is required. Card Forms 1040-A must be verified and the tax computed. Estimated tax credits must be matched with the returns.

"All these steps plus many others have to be taken before a refund may be scheduled to the Disbursement Office in Cleveland for payment. The length of time taken by the latter is, of necessity, unpredictable at the peak-load period."

Looker warned that telephone calls and letters of inquiry definitely slow down the refunding program by diverting the services of personnel from the processing of returns to answering the calls and letters as well as possible under the circumstances.

"These answers are bound to be unsatisfactory both to us and to the taxpayers since it is possible to locate only a minimum of such returns until after the bulk of the refunds are made," continued the director.

"It is not possible to handle returns in any particular order because in some instances, returns may be incomplete; in others, they must be returned to the taxpayer; and frequently, returns are unprocessable for some other reason.

"Thus if anything is wrong with a return, the taxpayer will hear from us," Looker said. "If he doesn't hear, he'll know we are processing the refund as fast as we can. If folks will be patient, their refunds will reach them within a reasonable time—in many instances, sooner than they expect."

574 Southwestern Ohio Pupils Enter Science Displays

OXFORD (AP)—Working exhibits ranging from a transistor to cancer research have been entered by 574 pupils from 10 southwestern Ohio counties in the 10th annual Miami University Science Day for high schools, scheduled here Saturday in cooperation with the Ohio Academy of Science.

Entry blanks have indicated the display will include a color TV explanation, a steam engine, a transistor, a telescope, various chemical reaction charts; extensive collections of butterflies, birds' eggs, rocks and fossils of southwestern Ohio, and numerous other examples of teen-agers' efforts to carry science study far beyond basic classroom requirements. The Miami exhibit serves as a qualifying show for Clinton, Adams, Brown, Butler, Clermont, Hamilton, Miami, Montgomery, Preble and Warren counties.

Cincinnati Retrial Nears Jury Action

CINCINNATI (AP)—The retrial of Denver Powell, 46, of El Centro, Calif., charged with the 1949 hold-up-slaying of John Schreck, delicatessen operator, probably will go to a jury Friday.

One of the state's final rebuttal witnesses Wednesday was Donald Roney, assistant county prosecutor and investigator. He denied Powell's previous testimony that the state, through Roney, had offered leniency in exchange for a signed confession.

Illness of a juror at Powell's first trial last October caused the court to declare a mistrial.

Health Group OKs Legislative Plans

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Mental Health Assn. board of directors has adopted all recommendations of the group's legislative committee.

Mrs. Marion S. Wells, executive director of OMHA, said the committee had recommended legislation to establish a committee to study the clinic program in Ohio and make recommendations for facilitating the proper development of these services for the entire state.

The committee, Mrs. Wells said, also recommended support for a measure which would create a bureau of alcoholism.

Big Change Seen In City Planning

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A city planning expert predicts that highway construction over the next 20 years will change the character of metropolitan areas more than all the work of metropolitan planners since 1945.

John T. Howard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology associate professor, offered with his prophecy on the impact of the expanded federal highway construction program this lament:

"We are ill prepared, now that the new highways are upon us, to say where they should be built in the best interests of the metropolitan areas."

Some Sign Seen Ike To Ask For Powers To Curb Credit

WASHINGTON (AP)— Speculation sharpened today on whether President Eisenhower will ask Congress for standby powers to regulate consumer installment credit.

The odds seemed to be against it, for interest has been lukewarm lately. But it was spotlighted by the issuance Tuesday of a massive study prepared at Eisenhower's request by the staff of the Federal Reserve Board.

The researchers found that easy-payment buying of autos and consumer goods tends to be unruly. "The major influence," they said, "has been to add fuel to booms; it has less often been an aggravating factor during recessions."

The FRB staff found that the credit structure, though carrying a record 31½ billion dollars of installment debt, is less likely than in 1929 to collapse during a recession into defaults, foreclosures and repossessions. It nevertheless cautioned:

"The possibility of an episode of drastic and spiraling liquidation should not be dismissed."

The report is neutral on standby controls; it presents various conflicting views in its five volumes and 1,619 pages. The reserve board itself has taken no position though it presumably would administer any controls voted, as it does the margin buying of stock on the exchanges.

Eisenhower asked Congress 14 months ago to "consider" standby controls. That was just after the 1955 auto credit binge, when total soared by 5½ billion dollars.

The rate of rise abated last year without damage, and the issue has taken a back seat. Businessmen who have visited Eisenhower recently said he shows far less concern. Neither has any strong movement for controls developed in Congress.

The FBI study showed that 45 per cent of American families owe some installment debt.

Three times as many families with incomes over $10,000 now use installment credit as did so in 1952, the report found, even though 88 per cent of these debtors had liquid assets of $500 or more and presumably could have paid cash in many cases.

Some families evidently use installment credit as a form of saving, it was indicated; they save their liquid assets and buy goods on installments. The report added:

"It has become respectable to be a debtor, and the desire to own a home 'free and clear' is no longer as strong as it was in the past."

John Bunyan wrote part of "Pilgrim's Progress" while jailed in Bedford, England, for unlawful preaching.

Let's All Go Shopping!

Cheese is one food that can be had in almost any flavor or form that suits one's fancy. Over 400 different varieties are sold in the United States. A modern food store has an array of cheeses in all sizes, shapes and flavors. There is a cheese to suit any taste—regardless of preference.

Choices include trim squares, oblongs, triangles, jars, glasses, foil wraps, little rolls, fat pieces, balls, and sausage-like links. Flavors are sharp, medium, mild and creamy, smoked, or otherwise treated to suit a multitude of tastes.

The shopper can find out a lot about the what, where, why, and how of cheeses by carefully reading all information on the labels. These "windows" are a big help in knowing the difference between forms, styles, and flavors.

So—Let's All Go Shopping For Cheese—one of the most economical foods on the market. This is especially true when considering the protein and fuel content—as well as calcium, phosphorus, and iron. There is little or no waste, and its flavor and goodness mean good eating at a very low cost.

Cheese—the very concentrated product made from milk was one of the earliest ways devised for preserving the food constituents of milk.

* * *

The various characteristic flavors—mild to strong—are made through "ripening" action of micro-organisms. The organisms responsible for this action are lactic acid bacteria and molds: they partially digest the protein and develop the flavors peculiar to the different kinds of cheese.

Natural cheese is made by coagulating milk, cutting, stirring and heating the curd, draining off the whey, and collecting or pressing the curd. It varies according to the kind of milk used, the amount of fat and water in the curd, and the flavor and texture attained during the ripening. The lower the moisture content, the harder it is

American Cheddar cheese, sometimes called American cheese, is by far the favorite and most widely used. (Its origin dates back to the 16th century in the village of Cheddar, Somersetshire, England.)

Three-fourths of all the cheese produced in this country is of the Cheddar type. Next in importance to Cheddar are Cottage, Swiss, and Cream.

Process Cheese is made from one or more natural cheeses. The natural cheeses are cut into small pieces, melted, pasteurized, and blended together. A process cheese has a uniform flavor and consistency. No further curing can take place because the bacteria and enzymes needed for ripening are destroyed by the pasteurization.

* * *

A three-ounce serving of cheese is equal to a four-ounce serving of meat.

Remove cheese from the refrigerator at least an hour before serving. The flavor is more pronounced if the cheese is at room temperature.

Always cook cheese preparations at low temperatures.

Mrs. Walter Wright of Williamsport has a very popular "winning-way" of using two milk products, and favoring Cheese. She often takes a Pineapple-Cheese Salad to those frequent co-operative meals.

The ingredients and procedure are as follows: For five minutes boil together one-fourth cup of Sugar and a Number Two can of crushed pineapple. Add two boxes of Lime Jello and stir until dissolved. Add two cups of water and let the mixture start to jell. Add one cup nuts-chopped, one cup celery-chopped, eight ounce package of Philadelphia Cream Cheese, and one-half pint of whipping cream which has been whipped.

WORLD-WIDE UNIFORM ROAD MARKINGS GOAL OF UNITED NATIONS COMMISSION

By JEROME DREYER
Central Press Association
United Nations Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS, New York—It is the avowed aim of this international body to improve the lot of this troubled world—and in more ways than the average person realizes. For instance, the motorist.

For several years one of its agencies, the Transport and Communications commission of the United Nations Economic and Social council has been developing a system of uniform highway markers that would be intelligible to automobile drivers in whatever country they may be touring.

Uniform highway markers, as visualized by United Nations.

The basis of this are road signs bearing easily distinguishable standard symbols which would eliminate much head-scratching and poring through foreign language dictionaries while traffic piles up behind a puzzled driver.

Americans, in ever-increasing numbers, now are driving in virtually every foreign country. Cars accompanying tourists abroad are being hoisted from the holds of ocean liners by the hundreds and U. S. license plates are seen parked in front of hotels from Afghanistan to Yugoslavia.

* * *

THE 40,000 CARS rented to tourists in Europe each year all indicate that neither physical nor political boundaries are keeping our citizens at home. Visiting motorists in this country, too, are not uncommon.

Both groups, European who have driven in the United States and Americans who have motored in Europe, are agreed that the European system of symbolized signs is superior, and urge the simplification of signs, particularly in the adoption of the easily understood symbols.

* * *

RESEARCH on the part of the UN agency involved two years of exhaustive field tests and laboratory research by experts from five countries.

Their recommendations are based on scientific and practical studies carried out in North and South America, Europe, Asia and Africa. Here in the United States tests were conducted in Ohio, California, Minnesota, New York and Virginia.

Two principal systems are presently used—the "European" and "American" systems. The basic differences are in the use of symbols in Europe, while the American system relies chiefly on the use of inscriptions and in the shape and colors.

This group of experts tested both systems for visibility and legibility under actual driving conditions at 50 miles an hour, during all kinds of inclement weather.

Their findings indicated that symbols were definitely superior to word messages and that the "diamond" shape of the American design permitted the most efficient use of the plate area.

Now, if they can arrange for women drivers who indicate a right turn—and make it . . .

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

Have you ever been in a serious automobile accident? Do you know what the few seconds between joyful motoring and tragedy are like?

If you haven't, perhaps you would like to prepare yourself and your family for the ever-present possibility of a highway accident. Although it is not intended to be a report of any one accident, the following account is a second-by-second dramatization of what researchers and safety officials believe happens in an automobile crash.

9:21 p. m. Frank, 32, is driving. His wife Mary, 30, is sitting in the right front seat. His son Carl, 7, is riding in the back of the family's 1956 sedan.

9:21:01 p. m. The car is traveling north on a state highway at 63 miles an hour and approaching an intersection.

9:21:02 P. M. Frank says, "Turn on the radio, will you, hon? There's . . . . ."

9:21:03 p. m. Frank suddenly sees a stop sign just ahead of him—a sign that is amply visible in the daytime but not treated to give sufficient warning at night.

9:21:05 p. m. He has reacted to the danger of the stop sign and gets his foot on the car brake.

9:21:06 p. m. Into the intersection and still going more than 50 miles an hour, Frank sees a car speeding toward him from the right.

9:21:07 p. m. The cars crash together and Mary screams in terror. Carl is thrown from his seat and slammed against the left rear window of the car. Mary frantically puts her arms out in a defensive act designed to ward off the car crashing into her side of the automobile. Frank is jerked forward from his driver's seat as his car is suddenly halted.

9:21:08 p. m. Carl's left shoulder is splintered and his face cut horribly as he is forced through the left rear window of the car. Mary's right side is crushed as the other car smashes through the door of her car. Frank's legs are broken as he continues his forward movement after the car has stopped. His stomach hits the steering wheel and he suffers severe internal injuries.

9:21:09 P. M. Frank's car falls on his left side. Mary is dangling across the front seat, Carl is thrown across the highway, and Frank's left arm is pinned beneath the weight of the overturned car.

9:22 p. m. Carl is almost dead and will die before help can arrive. Frank's left arm will be cut off above the elbow, and he will forever have to move about in a wheel chair. Mary will spend eight weeks in the hospital.

The family's home will be lost in the settlement of costs of the accident, Frank will never work again, and Mary's role will be that of remembering forever the horrible seconds of the accident that happened one night on an almost deserted road.

State's Fair Trade Law To Be Tested In Supreme Court

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has agreed to study the question whether a person without a contract can sell anti-freeze at a lower price than his competitor who has a contract with the maker.

Bargain Fair, Inc. of Mentor asked the high court to release it from an injunction issued in Lake County against the sale of Prestone anti-freeze below the minimum price set in fair trade statutes.

The injunction was issued at the request of Union Carbide and Carbon Co., maker of Prestone.

Bargain Fair and Mentor Brands, Inc. maintained they should not be restricted to the fair trade price since they did not sign a fair trade contract with Union Carbide, and fair trade prices do not apply to non-signers.

The WCTU met in the home of Mrs. Winifred Conley with Mrs. Ilo Creamer as assisting hostess. The meeting was called to order by the president Mrs. Creamer, after which program leader, Mrs. Bertha Graham, took charge. The theme used was "Directing Our Thoughts." Scripture was taken from Psalms 5-3, which was followed by "The Lord's Prayer". Mrs. Graham opened the program with a meditation entitled, "Break Thou the Bread of Life" and told the story of a young soldier, who had been given a short time to live. His father came from a long distance and brought him bread from home which he partook of and was soon on the way to recovery. The comparison made was that Bread from home is available to us through God's word. Papers were read from the "Union Signal" and "Ohio Messenger" by Mrs. Graham. Other papers were read by Mrs. Elma Eaken, Grace Minshall and Mrs. Frances Furniss. The president completed the business session. The roll was called to which each member responded with a verse of scripture. Plans for a joint institute between Five Points, Commercial Point and Derby were discussed. The Institute will be held in the Derby school April 11. There will be a short morning session, lunch and a session in the afternoon with a speaker, to which classes from the junior and senior high are to be invited. The meeting closed with prayer after which the hostess and assistant served refreshments. Mrs. Frances Furniss was a guest.

Advice Given For Delivery Of Shrubbery

Postmaster Charles H. Walters advised Circleville home gardeners today that for the safest delivery of their shrubbery and plants during the current planting season they should take certain steps to aid deliverymen.

"We have been informed by the Gardening Council of New York that this is the shipping season for nursery stock orders," the postmaster said. "Much of the stock is perishable, and without the cooperation of the purchasers, and delivering agents, best results cannot be expected."

* * *

THE POSTMASTER said there are three steps that purchasers should take:

1. If away or on vacation, make arrangements to have a neighbor accept shipments. Keep moist and in a cool location until planting time. Otherwise, the plants may deteriorate in storage at the post-office, express, or freight station while awaiting delivery.

2. If a neighbor cannot accept delivery, contact the postoffice or transportation agent, and leave instructions as to where the plants can be delivered. A cool basement, garage, or shaded porch is always better than a mail room or on-hand department for dormant plants and nursery stock.

3. Best of all, if you are home, have the ground well prepared, and make your planting as soon as possible after delivery. Early planting, liberal watering, and following the sender's instructions will insure best growth of all plant materials.

Cincy Firm Low On Miami Project

COLUMBUS (AP)—Frank Messer & Sons Inc., of Cincinnati, submitted the apparent low bid of $669,600 for general construction work on a fine arts building at Miami University.

KINSEY'S MEN'S SHOP

Let's All Go Shopping!

Cheese is one food that can be had in almost any flavor or form that suits one's fancy. Over 400 different varieties are sold in the United States. A modern food store has an array of cheeses in all sizes, shapes and flavors. There is a cheese to suit any taste—regardless of preference.

Choices include trim squares, oblongs, triangles, jars, glasses, foil wraps, little rolls, fat pieces, balls, and sausage-like links. Flavors are sharp, medium, mild and creamy, smoked, or otherwise treated to suit a multitude of tastes.

The shopper can find out a lot about the what, where, why, and how of cheeses by carefully reading all information on the labels. These "windows" are a big help in knowing the difference between forms, styles, and flavors.

So—Let's All Go Shopping For Cheese—one of the most economical foods on the market. This is especially true when considering the protein and fuel content—as well as calcium, phosphorus, and iron. There is little or no waste, and its flavor and goodness mean good eating at a very low cost.

Cheese—the very concentrated product made from milk was one of the earliest ways devised for preserving the food constituents of milk.

* * *

The various characteristic flavors—mild to strong—are made through "ripening" action of micro-organisms. The organisms responsible for this action are lactic acid bacteria and molds; they partially digest the protein and develop the flavors peculiar to the different kinds of cheese.

Natural cheese is made by coagulating milk, cutting, stirring and heating the curd, draining off the whey, and collecting or pressing the curd. It varies according to the kind of milk used, the amount of fat and water in the curd, and the flavor and texture attained during the ripening. The lower the moisture content, the harder it is

American Cheddar cheese, sometimes called American cheese, is by far the favorite and most widely used. (Its origin dates back to the 16th century in the village of Cheddar, Somersetshire, England.)

Three-fourths of all the cheese produced in this country is of the Cheddar type. Next in importance to Cheddar are Cottage, Swiss, and Cream.

Process Cheese is made from one or more natural cheeses. The natural cheeses are cut into small pieces, melted, pasteurized, and blended together. A process cheese has a uniform flavor and consistency. No further curing can take place because the bacteria and enzymes needed for ripening are destroyed by the pasteurization.

* * *

A three-ounce serving of cheese is equal to a four-ounce serving of meat.

Remove cheese from the refrigerator at least an hour before serving. The flavor is more pronounced if the cheese is at room temperature.

Always cook cheese preparations at low temperatures.

Mrs. Walter Wright of Williamsport has a very popular "winning-way" of using two milk products, and favoring Cheese. She often takes a Pineapple-Cheese Salad to those frequent co-operative meals.

The ingredients and procedure are as follows: For five minutes boil together one-fourth cup of Sugar and a Number Two can of crushed pineapple. Add two boxes of Lime Jello and stir until dissolved. Add two cups of water and let the mixture start to jell. Add one cup nuts-chopped, one cup celery-chopped, eight ounce package of Philadelphia Cream Cheese, and one-half pint of whipping cream which has been whipped.

WORLD-WIDE UNIFORM ROAD MARKINGS GOAL OF UNITED NATIONS COMMISSION

By JEROME DREYER
Central Press Association
United Nations Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS, New York—It is the avowed aim of this international body to improve the lot of this troubled world—and in more ways than the average person realizes. For instance, the motorist.

For several years one of its agencies, the Transport and Communications commission of the United Nations Economic and Social council has been developing a system of uniform highway markers that would be intelligible to automobile drivers in whatever country they may be touring.

Uniform highway markers, as visualized by United Nations.

The basis of this are road signs bearing easily distinguishable standard symbols which would eliminate much head-scratching and poring through foreign language dictionaries while traffic piles up behind a puzzled driver.

Americans, in ever-increasing numbers, now are driving in virtually every foreign country. Cars accompanying tourists abroad are being hoisted from the holds of ocean liners by the hundreds and U. S. license plates are seen parked in front of hotels from Afghanistan to Yugoslavia.

* * *

THE 40,000 CARS rented to tourists in Europe each year all indicate that neither physical nor political boundaries are keeping our citizens at home. Visiting motorists in this country, too, are not uncommon.

Both groups, European who have driven in the United States and Americans who have motored in Europe, are agreed that the European system of symbolized signs is superior, and urge the simplification of signs, particularly in the adoption of the easily understood symbols.

* * *

RESEARCH on the part of the UN agency involved two years of exhaustive field tests and laboratory research by experts from five countries.

Their recommendations are based on scientific and practical studies carried out in North and South America, Europe, Asia and Africa. Here in the United States tests were conducted in Ohio, California, Minnesota, New York and Virginia.

Two principal systems are presently used—the "European" and "American" systems. The basic differences are in the use of symbols in Europe, while the American system relies chiefly on the use of inscriptions and in the shape and colors.

This group of experts tested both systems for visibility and legibility under actual driving conditions at 50 miles an hour, during all kinds of inclement weather.

Their findings indicated that symbols were definitely superior to word messages and that the "diamond" shape of the American design permitted the most efficient use of the plate area.

Now, if they can arrange for women drivers who indicate a right turn—and make it . . .

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

Have you ever been in a serious automobile accident? Do you know what the few seconds between joyful motoring and tragedy are like?

If you haven't, perhaps you would like to prepare yourself and your family for the ever-present possibility of a highway accident. Although it is not intended to be a report of any one accident, the following account is a second-by-second dramatization of what researchers and safety officials believe happens in an automobile crash.

9:21 p. m. Frank, 32, is driving. His wife Mary, 30, is sitting in the right front seat. His son Carl, 7, is riding in the back of the family's 1956 sedan.

9:21:01 p. m. The car is traveling north on a state highway at 63 miles an hour and approaching an intersection.

9:21:02 P. M. Frank says, "Turn on the radio, will you, hon? There's . . . . ."

9:21:03 p. m. Frank suddenly sees a stop sign just ahead of him—a sign that is amply visible in the daytime but not treated to give sufficient warning at night.

9:21:05 p. m. He has reacted to the danger of the stop sign and gets his foot on the car brake.

9:21:06 p. m. Into the intersection and still going more than 50 miles an hour, Frank sees a car speeding toward him from the right.

9:21:07 p. m. The cars crash together and Mary screams in terror. Carl is thrown from his seat and slammed against the left rear window of the car. Mary frantically puts her arms out in a defensive act designed to ward off the car crashing into her side of the automobile. Frank is jerked forward from his driver's seat as his car is suddenly halted.

9:21:08 p. m. Carl's left shoulder is splintered and his face cut horribly as he is forced through the left rear window of the car. Mary's right side is crushed as the other car smashes through the door of her car. Frank's legs are broken as he continues his forward movement after the car has stopped. His stomach hits the steering wheel and he suffers severe internal injuries.

9:21:09 P. M. Frank's car falls on his left side. Mary is dangling across the front seat, Carl is thrown across the highway, and Frank's left arm is pinned beneath the weight of the overturned car.

9:22 p. m. Carl is almost dead and will die before help can arrive. Frank's left arm will be cut off above the elbow, and he will forever have to move about in a wheel chair. Mary will spend eight weeks in the hospital.

The family's home will be lost in the settlement of costs of the accident, Frank will never work again, and Mary's role will be that of remembering forever the horrible seconds of the accident that happened one night on an almost deserted road.

State's Fair Trade Law To Be Tested In Supreme Court

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has agreed to study the question whether a person without a contract can sell anti-freeze at a lower price than his competitor who has a contract with the maker.

Bargain Fair, Inc. of Mentor asked the high court to release it from an injunction issued in Lake County against the sale of Prestone anti-freeze below the minimum price set in fair trade statutes.

The injunction was issued at the request of Union Carbide and Carbon Co., maker of Prestone.

Bargain Fair and Mentor Brands, Inc. maintained they should not be restricted to the fair trade price since they did not sign a fair trade contract with Union Carbide, and fair trade prices do not apply to non-signers.

The WCTU met in the home of Mrs. Winifred Conley with Mrs. Ilo Creamer as assisting hostess. The meeting was called to order by the president Mrs. Creamer, after which program leader, Mrs. Bertha Graham, took charge. The theme used was "Directing Our Thoughts." Scripture was taken from Psalms 5-3, which was followed by "The Lord's Prayer". Mrs. Graham opened the program with a meditation entitled, "Break Thou the Bread of Life" and told the story of a young soldier, who had been given a short time to live. His father came from a long distance and brought him bread from home which he partook of and was soon on the way to recovery. The comparison made was that Bread from home is available to us through God's word. Papers were read from the "Union Signal" and "Ohio Messenger" by Mrs. Graham. Other papers were read by Mrs. Elma Eaken, Grace Minshall and Mrs. Frances Furniss. The president completed the business session. The roll was called to which each member responded with a verse of scripture. Plans for a joint institute between Five Points, Commercial Point and Derby were discussed. The Institute will be held in the Derby school April 11. There will be a short morning session, lunch and a session in the afternoon with a speaker, to which classes from the junior and senior high are to be invited. The meeting closed with prayer after which the hostess and assistant served refreshments. Mrs. Frances Furniss was a guest.

Advice Given For Delivery Of Shrubbery

Postmaster Charles H. Walters advised Circleville home gardeners today that for the safest delivery of their shrubbery and plants during the current planting season they should take certain steps to aid deliverymen.

"We have been informed by the Gardening Council of New York that this is the shipping season for nursery stock orders," the postmaster said. "Much of the stock is perishable, and without the cooperation of the purchasers, and delivering agents, best results cannot be expected."

* * *

THE POSTMASTER said there are three steps that purchasers should take:

1. If away or on vacation, make arrangements to have a neighbor accept shipments. Keep moist and in a cool location until planting time. Otherwise, the plants may deteriorate in storage at the post-office, express, or freight station while awaiting delivery.

2. If a neighbor cannot accept delivery, contact the postoffice or transportation agent, and leave instructions as to where the plants can be delivered. A cool basement, garage, or shaded porch is always better than a mail room or on-hand department for dormant plants and nursery stock.

3. Best of all, if you are home, have the ground well prepared, and make your planting as soon as possible after delivery. Early planting, liberal watering, and following the sender's instructions will insure best growth of all plant materials.

Important Decisions To Come

A ruling on union political activities which may be more important because of the train of suits it will start than for the contents of the decision itself has been handed down by the United States Supreme Court.

What the high court did was to reinstate by a 6 to 3 vote an indictment charging the United Auto Workers with violating federal law by paying for political television broadcasts over a Detroit station in 1954.

A Detroit judge had ruled the payments were not in violation of the federal corrupt practices law which forbids "any labor organization to make a contribution of expenditure in connection with any election."

The majority decision of the U. S. Supreme Court holds that labor sponsorship of political broadcasts clearly violates the law.

Three justices — Warren, Douglas and Black—dissented and claimed the decision abolishes free speech rights "on a wholesale basis." Attorneys for the AFL-CIO had contended that the corrupt practices law violates free speech guarantees of the Constitution.

But the majority of the court ducked that question, remanding the case to the lower court with the thought that "matters now buried under abstract constitutional issues may . . . be brought to the surface and in the outcome constitutional questions may disappear."

This seems a dim hope in view of the immediate reaction of attorneys for the UAW who said they would contest the "freedom of speech" question if they ultimately lose on the corrupt practices indictment.

It should be noted that not only the political spending of unions, but also of corporations, is involved.

So far the Supreme Court has in effect ruled that under a particular law the unions illegally used dues of their members to sponsor television programs. Still unresolved are the basic questions whether laws checking union and corporation political spending are constitutional.

Top Toys Of 1957: Just Guns

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Ruth Handler will make more money with guns this year than Jesse James did in his whole life.

Mrs. Handler, top woman executive in the nation's $1½ billion toy industry, says the top toys of 1957 will be guns, guns, and still more guns.

The result: More toy guns (up to 13 million) will probably be sold by next Christmas than dolls.

"Little girls love guns, too," said Mrs. Handler. "They get upset if told they can't have them. They even steal them from their little brothers."

Mrs. Handler, a onetime secretary, and her husband, Elliot, a former artist, are known as "The Whiz Kids" of the toy trade.

In 1944 they were earning a bare living making plastic jewelry. Then they started turning out plastic toy furniture, and grossed $100,000 the first year.

Elliot turned out to have a natural genius for creating novel toys that caught the fancy of children. Ruth showed a remarkable talent for solving production problems and marketing the toys. This year their firm, which has up to 1,000 employes in peak season at its Los Angeles plant, will do a business of nearly $10 million.

"We started on a shoestring," said Ruth, a dark-haired, vivacious woman who has two children herself. "But it takes more than a shoestring to keep going.

"You have to keep a step ahead of the rest, and be able to sense trends in advance. My husband has a sixth sense in this respect. He's a great idea man.

"Reseach is of great importance. Designing a good toy requires, in my opinion, a better quality of engineering than that required to do national defense work. And I think I know. We've done some defense work."

Their biggest new items this year are a thunderburp gun, which enables small fry to fire a burst of 50 caps, and the "Fanner Fifty," a toy pistol which a child can fire by handfanning, just as the old-time western gunmen did.

Problems Too Deep For Money

By George Sokolsky

Responsible statesmen do not knowingly or consciously commit their countries to costly errors; what happens always is that human factors, psychological factors which are just as significant historically as the clash of economic and political forces play their part in the confusions which are engendered not by the course of events but by the whims of men.

The destruction of the British, French and Dutch Empires by American attitudes antagonistic to what is called colonialism has created a vacuum in Asia and Africa. That vacuum is being filled not by independent governments but by Soviet Russia.

The whimsicalities of our State Department which seems to believe that it is possible to maintain NATO while destroying NATO countries are as personal as the selection of a necktie. Historically it has already had the result of forcing Western Europe together into the Common Market which is a cover for a Western European alliance against all comers.

It could leave the United States without any ally and that is why the conference between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan is so important. It may be the decisive meeting which will determine whether the Anglo-American Alliance has been drowned in the waters of the Suez Canal.

The role of Israel has been over-dramatized. From the standpoint of historic perspective, it is not the battles over the Gaza Strip or Aqaba that will decide the course of history. It is rather that Great Britain has been pushed out of Egypt and Jordan and that the Suez Canal has ceased to be an international waterway and has become a domestic canal, controlled solely by Egypt for its own political advantage or that of its ally, Soviet Russia.

The ultimate historic effect of this would be to turn the Mediterranean into a Soviet lake, imperilling Turkey, Greece, Italy and the British in Gibraltar. On the south bank of the Mediterranean, it could imperil every American air base. It could be one of the decisive victories in history.

These are the frigid facts that President Eisenhower will face at Bermuda, and if he should decide that doctrinaire pacifism is preferable to historic reality, this country will become as isolated as it has not been since 1938.

If isolation is an evil and a peril, as some say, this is the moment in history when a choice must be made. The alternatives will be a continuance of the Anglo-American Alliance or a rejection of alliances with any country, a return to the doctrine of going it alone to avoid war at any cost.

There is a tendency to believe that because of President Eisenhower's special gifts, his friendly disposition and the regard in which he is held throughout the world, he can manage to talk European and Asiatic statesmen out of their worst intentions.

While the President's ability as a conciliator must be recognized, it must also be acknowledged that no statesman can long last in his own country who agrees to his country's dissolution and loss of position. And that is what faced the leaders of Great Britain, France, Israel and Egypt during the so-called Egyptian crisis. Therefore there is today no Middle Eastern Settlement.

For what the United States and the United Nations require is that the great nations should not defend themselves against whatever the weak and backward nations do to them, even if the weak and backward nations are acting as Soviet allies in Russia's march toward Empire.

It is an untenable position which was accepted as long as Western Europe was wholly dependent upon the United States for revival and reconstruction. Today no European country is actually dependent upon the United States, although European aid is acceptable up to a point. The danger point is naturally suicide.

This is what we face in world affairs and we might as well know where we stand. During recent years, Americans seem to have developed a tendency to assume that money will solve all problems and we are now engaged in peddling $200,000,000 in the Middle East. There are problems that money cannot solve and those involve national dignity and self-respect.

The Europe of 1957 is not the Europe of 1945 and the sooner that is recognized and acknowledged, the fewer will be the errors of policy—errors which during the past four years have been startlingly notorious.

DROODLES

By ROGER PRICE

"GAT WITH GITTENS"

When Mrs. Schwine gave me this Droodle she swore that she made it up but I happen to know that she stole the idea while she was watching an old Marx Brothers movie on Television. She's a big fan of theirs. Never misses any of their pictures when they're rerun on TV, and she insists that, next to the Gabor sisters, the Marx Brothers are the best comedy team in the world. I think the real reason is because she looks like Harpo, but she claims it's their hilarious material that gets her. She says her favorite Marx Brothers routine is the one where Chico asks Groucho, "Who's on first?" and Groucho says, "One of these days, Chico, Pow, right in the kisser!" I'd like to see that one myself.

Don't Be Afraid To Ask Your Doctor About Fees

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

LET'S talk about money.

You'd think just about everybody would be happy to discuss a subject such as this. But you'd be surprised at how many people actually fear to bring up the matter with their doctors.

No matter what you think, the simple fact is that doctors' fees haven't gone up as far, or as fast, as your other family expenses.

Medical Costs

You spend about the same proportion of your budget on medical costs as your parents did 20 years ago. That's about four cents out of every dollar.

Since wages have gone up at a much faster clip than medical costs, it means you have to put in less work to pay for the same amount of medical care.

Today, more than ever before, the bill your doctor sends you represents one of the really big bargains of your life. And you are entitled to know just about how much that bill will be when you seek medical help.

While your doctor can't always tell you in advance precisely how much a course of treatment or an operation is going to cost, he often can give you a pretty good idea.

Yet most patients become tongue-tied when it comes to asking their doctor about how much treatment will cost and how the payment is to be made. They are able to talk freely about some of their most intimate problems, but not about money.

Respect for Doctor

Many undoubtedly refrain from bringing up the subject of money out of respect for their doctor. I guess they think it might be unbecoming for him to talk about money. But this isn't so, believe me.

In fact, thousands of doctors have a plaque in their offices which reads:

"To all my patients—I invite you to discuss frankly with me any questions regarding my services or fees. The best medical service is based on a friendly mutual understanding between doctor and patient."

They really mean it, too.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

B. D.: My 4-year-old son's teeth have become partly covered by his gums. This condition is a recent development. What is the cause?

Answer: The condition which you describe is not an unusual one. It may be due to overstimulation of the gums from some source.

Immediate examination by the dentist is advisable.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) —Let's keep our shirts on and hope for the best.

That's neither a very positive nor a very imaginative policy, but it seems the only one the Eisenhower administration has had for four years in handling the Middle East.

Through it the United States has avoided a showdown with Egyptian President Nasser while he made threats, seized the Suez Canal, brought Egypt closer to Russia and inflamed Arabs against the West.

There's no reason to think it won't continue to be American policy.

The United States has not yet taken a firm stand on Nasser anywhere along the line except for blocking Egyptian assets in the United States and imposing some minor economic restrictions.

The administration can give several reasons for its use of patience:

It wants to avoid any action which might precipitate war, to keep Arabs generally friendly to the West and away from Russia, and to achieve good ends by reasonableness, no matter how long it takes.

But this policy of patience and no firm stand so exasperated Britain, France and Israel, all three of which wanted action against Nasser, that they invaded Egypt.

It is a policy which will turn out all right in the end if Nasser decides to play nice or if he makes himself obnoxious to his fellow Arabs and Egyptians by needless arrogance or dragging them into new crises.

There's no evidence at this time that either will happen. Nasser's doing all right. He has the support of Egyptians, Arabs and Asians. Since the invasion and closing of Suez he has been under economic pressure but it isn't killing him.

All he had to do for months — after the British-French-Israeli invasion — was sit tight, keep his mouth shut, promise nothing, and watch the United States struggle to get its three friends out of Egypt.

Because Israel was the invader, the United States took the position it was in no position to demand or get guarantees against future aggression by Nasser. By this reasoning, the United States could make no demands on Nasser.

This left him free, once the Israelis cleared out, to resume where he had left off. He started pushing his luck at once. When the Israelis quit Gaza, which the U. N. had assigned to Egyptian administration, the United Nations troops took over there.

Right away Nasser argued the U. N. had no right to run Gaza. He sent in his own administrators—but not troops—to do that, thus starting to push the U. N. forces up to the line which seperates Gaza from Israel.

The U. N. troops are supposed to stay there indefinitely to prevent invasion across the line by Israelis or Egyptians. If Nasser feels strong enough to push his luck futher, he may demand the U. N. troops get out of Gaza altogether.

He could do so. He has never publicly promised the troops could stay on Egyptian territory any longer than he was willing to permit them there. He may hesitate about this for a while. The U. N. forces are good protection for him.

The Israeli army tore his army to pieces in its autumn invasion. It could march back into Egypt. But the presence of 6,000 U. N. troops on the Gaza line should make Israel pause.

If Nasser sent his troops into Gaza, the Israelis might attack at once anyway.

The Israelis, perhaps anticipating the day when Egyptian troops do move back into Gaza, have protested excitedly against the Egyptian civilian occupation of the strip. They got a chilly reception from the United States.

The administration has never said — publicly — that Nasser shouldn't occupy Gaza again.

President Eisenhower has also been vague on what this country would do if Nasser now bars Israeli shipping from the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba. All he did was say, if this happened, the United States would join other nations in seeking a solution.

What isn't known—is how close his ties to Russia really are and how much he has done and will do as the result of Russian prodding, perhaps with promises of Russian help if he gets in too deep.

Important Decisions To Come

A ruling on union political activities which may be more important because of the train of suits it will start than for the contents of the decision itself has been handed down by the United States Supreme Court.

What the high court did was to reinstate by a 6 to 3 vote an indictment charging the United Auto Workers with violating federal law by paying for political television broadcasts over a Detroit station in 1954.

A Detroit judge had ruled the payments were not in violation of the federal corrupt practices law which forbids "any labor organization to make a contribution of expenditure in connection with any election."

The majority decision of the U. S. Supreme Court holds that labor sponsorship of political broadcasts clearly violates the law.

Three justices — Warren, Douglas and Black—dissented and claimed the decision abolishes free speech rights "on a wholesale basis." Attorneys for the AFL-CIO had contended that the corrupt practices law violates free speech guarantees of the Constitution.

But the majority of the court ducked that question, remanding the case to the lower court with the thought that "matters now buried under abstract constitutional issues may . . . be brought to the surface and in the outcome constitutional questions may disappear."

This seems a dim hope in view of the immediate reaction of attorneys for the UAW who said they would contest the "freedom of speech" question if they ultimately lose on the corrupt practices indictment.

It should be noted that not only the political spending of unions, but also of corporations, is involved.

So far the Supreme Court has in effect ruled that under a particular law the unions illegally used dues of their members to sponsor television programs. Still unresolved are the basic questions whether laws checking union and corporation political spending are constitutional.

Top Toys Of 1957: Just Guns

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Ruth Handler will make more money with guns this year than Jesse James did in his whole life.

Mrs. Handler, top woman executive in the nation's $1½ billion toy industry, says the top toys of 1957 will be guns, guns, and still more guns.

The result: More toy guns (up to 13 million) will probably be sold by next Christmas than dolls.

"Little girls love guns, too," said Mrs. Handler. "They get upset if told they can't have them. They even steal them from their little brothers."

Mrs. Handler, a onetime secretary, and her husband, Elliot, a former artist, are known as "The Whiz Kids" of the toy trade.

In 1944 they were earning a bare living making plastic jewelry. Then they started turning out plastic toy furniture, and grossed $100,000 the first year.

Elliot turned out to have a natural genius for creating novel toys that caught the fancy of children. Ruth showed a remarkable talent for solving production problems and marketing the toys. This year their firm, which has up to 1,000 employes in peak season at its Los Angeles plant, will do a business of nearly $10 million.

"We started on a shoestring," said Ruth, a dark-haired, vivacious woman who has two children herself. "But it takes more than a shoestring to keep going.

"You have to keep a step ahead of the rest, and be able to sense trends in advance. My husband has a sixth sense in this respect. He's a great idea man.

"Reseach is of great importance. Designing a good toy requires, in my opinion, a better quality of engineering than that required to do national defense work. And I think I know. We've done some defense work."

Their biggest new items this year are a thunderburp gun, which enables small fry to fire a burst of 50 caps, and the "Fanner Fifty," a toy pistol which a child can fire by handfanning, just as the old-time western gunmen did.

Problems Too Deep For Money

By George Sokolsky

Responsible statesmen do not knowingly or consciously commit their countries to costly errors; what happens always is that human factors, psychological factors which are just as significant historically as the clash of economic and political forces play their part in the confusions which are engendered not by the course of events but by the whims of men.

The destruction of the British, French and Dutch Empires by American attitudes antagonistic to what is called colonialism has created a vacuum in Asia and Africa. That vacuum is being filled not by independent governments but by Soviet Russia.

The whimsicalities of our State Department which seems to believe that it is possible to maintain NATO while destroying NATO countries are as personal as the selection of a necktie. Historically it has already had the result of forcing Western Europe together into the Common Market which is a cover for a Western European alliance against all comers.

It could leave the United States without any ally and that is why the conference between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan is so important. It may be the decisive meeting which will determine whether the Anglo-American Alliance has been drowned in the waters of the Suez Canal.

The role of Israel has been over-dramatized. From the standpoint of historic perspective, it is not the battles over the Gaza Strip or Aqaba that will decide the course of history. It is rather that Great Britain has been pushed out of Egypt and Jordan and that the Suez Canal has ceased to be an international waterway and has become a domestic canal, controlled solely by Egypt for its own political advantage or that of its ally, Soviet Russia.

The ultimate historic effect of this would be to turn the Mediterranean into a Soviet lake, imperilling Turkey, Greece, Italy and the British in Gibraltar. On the south bank of the Mediterranean, it could imperil every American air base. It could be one of the decisive victories in history.

These are the frigid facts that President Eisenhower will face at Bermuda, and if he should decide that doctrinaire pacifism is preferable to historic reality, this country will become as isolated as it has not been since 1938.

If isolation is an evil and a peril, as some say, this is the moment in history when a choice must be made. The alternatives will be a continuance of the Anglo-American Alliance or a rejection of alliances with any country, a return to the doctrine of going it alone to avoid war at any cost.

There is a tendency to believe that because of President Eisenhower's special gifts, his friendly disposition and the regard in which he is held throughout the world, he can manage to talk European and Asiatic statesmen out of their worst intentions.

While the President's ability as a conciliator must be recognized, it must also be acknowledged that no statesman can long last in his own country who agrees to his country's dissolution and loss of position. And that is what faced the leaders of Great Britain, France, Israel and Egypt during the so-called Egyptian crisis. Therefore there is today no Middle Eastern Settlement.

For what the United States and the United Nations require is that the great nations should not defend themselves against whatever the weak and backward nations do to them, even if the weak and backward nations are acting as Soviet allies in Russia's march toward Empire.

It is an untenable position which was accepted as long as Western Europe was wholly dependent upon the United States for revival and reconstruction. Today no European country is actually dependent upon the United States, although European aid is acceptable up to a point. The danger point is naturally suicide.

This is what we face in world affairs and we might as well know where we stand. During recent years, Americans seem to have developed a tendency to assume that money will solve all problems and we are now engaged in peddling $200,000,000 in the Middle East. There are problems that money cannot solve and those involve national dignity and self-respect.

The Europe of 1957 is not the Europe of 1945 and the sooner that is recognized and acknowledged, the fewer will be the errors of policy—errors which during the past four years have been startlingly notorious.

DROODLES

By ROGER PRICE

"GAT WITH GITTENS"

When Mrs. Schwine gave me this Droodle she swore that she made it up but I happen to know that she stole the idea while she was watching an old Marx Brothers movie on Television. She's a big fan of theirs. Never misses any of their pictures when they're rerun on TV, and she insists that, next to the Gabor sisters, the Marx Brothers are the best comedy team in the world. I think the real reason is because she looks like Harpo, but she claims it's their hilarious material that gets her. She says her favorite Marx Brothers routine is the one where Chico asks Groucho, "Who's on first?" and Groucho says, "One of these days, Chico, Pow, right in the kisser!" I'd like to see that one myself.

Don't Be Afraid To Ask Your Doctor About Fees

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

LET'S talk about money.

You'd think just about everybody would be happy to discuss a subject such as this. But you'd be surprised at how many people actually fear to bring up the matter with their doctors.

No matter what you think, the simple fact is that doctors' fees haven't gone up as far, or as fast, as your other family expenses.

Medical Costs

You spend about the same proportion of your budget on medical costs as your parents did 20 years ago. That's about four cents out of every dollar.

Since wages have gone up at a much faster clip than medical costs, it means you have to put in less work to pay for the same amount of medical care.

Today, more than ever before, the bill your doctor sends you represents one of the really big bargains of your life. And you are entitled to know just about how much that bill will be when you seek medical help.

While your doctor can't always tell you in advance precisely how much a course of treatment or an operation is going to cost, he often can give you a pretty good idea.

Yet most patients become tongue-tied when it comes to asking their doctor about how much treatment will cost and how the payment is to be made. They are able to talk freely about some of their most intimate problems, but not about money.

Respect for Doctor

Many undoubtedly refrain from bringing up the subject of money out of respect for their doctor. I guess they think it might be unbecoming for him to talk about money. But this isn't so, believe me.

In fact, thousands of doctors have a plaque in their offices which reads:

"To all my patients—I invite you to discuss frankly with me any questions regarding my services or fees. The best medical service is based on a friendly mutual understanding between doctor and patient."

They really mean it, too.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

B. D.: My 4-year-old son's teeth have become partly covered by his gums. This condition is a recent development. What is the cause?

Answer: The condition which you describe is not an unusual one. It may be due to overstimulation of the gums from some source.

Immediate examination by the dentist is advisable.

Household Hints

Canned chicken a la king benefits from the addition of a couple of tablespoons of cooking sherry and some extra diced cooked chicken.

Egg pastina, sometimes used for baby diets, is delicious added to soups. The pastina comes in small cardboard boxes.

If you use attractive copper skillets and saucepans for cooking, you can bring them right to the table. Saves dishwashing!

Slash the fat around the edge of a ham slice before cooking it so the meat will not curl in the skillet, under the broiler or in the oven.

Poached eggs atop buttered spinach make a nutritious luncheon plate.

For weight-watchers: a noontime salad of cottage cheese and crisp greens with a garnish of spiced beets.

You will need about one-quarter cup of tangy French dressing for marinating a can of cut green beans. Serve the beans as a relish with meat or fish.

Two tablespoons of flour or one tablespoon of cornstarch will thicken a No. 2 can of tomatoes to be served as a side dish.

Household Hints

Canned chicken a la king benefits from the addition of a couple of tablespoons of cooking sherry and some extra diced cooked chicken.

Egg pastina, sometimes used for baby diets, is delicious added to soups. The pastina comes in small cardboard boxes.

If you use attractive copper skillets and saucepans for cooking, you can bring them right to the table. Saves dishwashing!

Slash the fat around the edge of a ham slice before cooking it so the meat will not curl in the skillet, under the broiler or in the oven.

Poached eggs atop buttered spinach make a nutritious luncheon plate.

For weight-watchers: a noontime salad of cottage cheese and crisp greens with a garnish of spiced beets.

You will need about one-quarter cup of tangy French dressing for marinating a can of cut green beans. Serve the beans as a relish with meat or fish.

Two tablespoons of flour or one tablespoon of cornstarch will thicken a No. 2 can of tomatoes to be served as a side dish.

Veterans Have Variety Of Uses For Bonus Pay

Survey Indicates Many Will Spend Money For Homes

Pickaway County's veterans of the Korean conflict plan to put their state bonus pay to good use.

A one-day survey here, conducted by Veterans Service Officer James Shea, indicated that 37 veterans intend to spend their bonus pay for a variety of uses, ranging from helping to buy a new home to paying for a new addition to the family.

Paying off bills appeared to be the number one use, however, with 12 vets telling Shea that they planned to spend the money for this purpose.

The other Korean vets remarked that they would spend or make use of the money as follows:

Help buy a home, seven; home improvement, five; put into savings account, seven; savings account for a college education, three; complete payments on cars, two; investment, one; new car, one; help pay expenses for a new baby, one.

Shea said that so far approximately 350 area veterans have applied here for their bonus. "This represents about one-third of those expected to file at the local office," he added.

The service officer reminded applicants who have not yet filed that they may come to his office during regular hours. Deadline for filing is Dec. 31, 1958.

Washington C. H. Farmer Honored

COLUMBUS (AP)—Frank B. Sollar, 35, of Washington C. H., was named Outstanding Young Farmer of 1956 Wednesday at the Farm and Home Week banquet here.

Findlay, Utility Continue Debate

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Fuel Gas Co. and Findlay attorneys are still deadlocked on the question of how much the company should be allowed to increase its rates.

Findlay's City Council last July authorized the company to increase its annual gross revenue by $142,000 through rate hikes. The company claims it needs an additional $150,000 to bring in a reasonable rate of profit.

Veterans Have Variety Of Uses For Bonus Pay

Survey Indicates Many Will Spend Money For Homes

Pickaway County's veterans of the Korean conflict plan to put their state bonus pay to good use.

A one-day survey here, conducted by Veterans Service Officer James Shea, indicated that 37 veterans intend to spend their bonus pay for a variety of uses, ranging from helping to buy a new home to paying for a new addition to the family.

Paying off bills appeared to be the number one use, however, with 12 vets telling Shea that they planned to spend the money for this purpose.

The other Korean vets remarked that they would spend or make use of the money as follows:

Help buy a home, seven; home improvement, five; put into savings account, seven; savings account for a college education, three; complete payments on cars, two; investment, one; new car, one; help pay expenses for a new baby, one.

Shea said that so far approximately 350 area veterans have applied here for their bonus. "This represents about one-third of those expected to file at the local office," he added.

The service officer reminded applicants who have not yet filed that they may come to his office during regular hours. Deadline for filing is Dec. 31, 1958.

Washington C. H. Farmer Honored

COLUMBUS (AP)—Frank B. Sollar, 35, of Washington C. H., was named Outstanding Young Farmer of 1956 Wednesday at the Farm and Home Week banquet here.

Second place went to Elmer J. Wellman, 31, Delphos; and third place to Donald H. Riley, 33, Burton. The contest was sponsored by the Ohio Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Findlay, Utility Continue Debate

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Fuel Gas Co. and Findlay attorneys are still deadlocked on the question of how much the company should be allowed to increase its rates.

Findlay's City Council last July authorized the company to increase its annual gross revenue by $142,000 through rate hikes. The company claims it needs an additional $150,000 to bring in a reasonable rate of profit.

Living In Debt Now Considered 'Way Of Life'

Buying Goods On Cuff Is Established Habit, Probably Will Continue

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — That living in debt is a way of life for an increasing number of Americans is official today. A government agency study group says so. And it thinks the habit will go on spreading.

This mayn't surprise the millions who together have 31 billion dollars more to pay on such things as autos, furniture, home appliances and travel, and to the hordes who added about 15 billion dollars to the nation's outstanding mortgage debt total last year.

This way of life is most prevalent among younger families and among those with incomes in the middle brackets.

The study group is the statistical staff of the Federal Reserve Board which had been asked to report on installment credit to President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers. It finds that buying goods and services on the cuff and making payments on a house over many years has become widely respectable, especially since World War II.

Families have been putting an average of 11 per cent of their spendable income into installment buying in the last two years, the group reports. It thinks this will gradually rise to 13 or 14 per cent by 1965.

Most families pay little attention to how much more this costs them in interest rates and carrying charges. The controlling concern is how much the monthly payments will be and if the family income will cover them.

For example, the average monthly payment on new cars has stayed around $80 in recent years. The rise in total auto financing has come, in addition to the number sold, in the lengthening of the period of payment. This has let installment buyers take on higher priced models.

Finance companies and auto makers keep a close watch on the volume of repayments. For one thing, they want to see the percentage of defaults—which has stayed reassuringly low. But mostly they figure that as the final payments near, the motorist becomes a prime candidate for a new car—and a fresh load of monthly payments.

The Federal Reserve group figures that monthly payment terms on autos and appliances have been lowered just about as far as they can be, so it thinks most of the future rise in the total of installment debt will come from the new and growing invasion of the consumer credit filed by the financers of travel, vacations and services, and by the increased emphasis on it by department and other retail stores seeking a larger share of the consumer's spendable dollar, as measured by his income expectations.

'Amanda Story' Demonstrates How Small Firms Play Role

Amanda, with 650 population, has a small business firm with a payroll of $320,000 for 82 employes and a volume of a million dollars a year, because Stanton Johns demonstrated that General Motors Corporation and small business depend on each other.

That's the Amanda story being told to a nationwide audience this month in large two-page advertisements in the March 18 issue of Life and March 23 issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

It was the enterprise of Johns, and the need of GM for dependable suppliers, that started Mid-West Fabricating Company, Inc., in 1946. It is a story duplicated by many of the 26,000 firms throughout the U. S. who supply GM with goods and services, and get nearly 50 per cent of every dollar GM takes in for its ultimate products.

In 1946, Johns was making garden plow wheels in a rented plant in Columbus. But he wanted to have his own plant in the town where he lived, Amanda. So did Amanda residents.

* * *

TWENTY OF them loaned him a total of $5,000, and Mid-West Fabricating Company, Inc., was born. Scouting for new business, Johns found GM's Oldsmobile Division in Lansing, Mich. needed more help in fabricating car control rods. A trial order led to a greater volume, and other GM divisions added to Oldsmobile orders.

From the original volume of $27,000 in 1946, Johns' firm has grown to a million dollar business. In addition to the payroll, Mid-West pumps cash into the economic stream of Amanda via taxes and civic contributions and purchases from its suppliers, demonstrating again the interdependence of small business, GM and the national economic welfare.

Living In Debt Now Considered 'Way Of Life'

Buying Goods On Cuff Is Established Habit, Probably Will Continue

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — That living in debt is a way of life for an increasing number of Americans is official today. A government agency study group says so. And it thinks the habit will go on spreading.

This mayn't surprise the millions who together have 31 billion dollars more to pay on such things as autos, furniture, home appliances and travel, and to the hordes who added about 15 billion dollars to the nation's outstanding mortgage debt total last year.

This way of life is most prevalent among younger families and among those with incomes in the middle brackets.

The study group is the statistical staff of the Federal Reserve Board which had been asked to report on installment credit to President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers. It finds that buying goods and services on the cuff and making payments on a house over many years has become widely respectable, especially since World War II.

Families have been putting an average of 11 per cent of their spendable income into installment buying in the last two years, the group reports. It thinks this will gradually rise to 13 or 14 per cent by 1965.

Most families pay little attention to how much more this costs them in interest rates and carrying charges. The controlling concern is how much the monthly payments will be and if the family income will cover them.

For example, the average monthly payment on new cars has stayed around $80 in recent years. The rise in total auto financing has come, in addition to the number sold, in the lengthening of the period of payment. This has let installment buyers take on higher priced models.

Finance companies and auto makers keep a close watch on the volume of repayments. For one thing, they want to see the percentage of defaults—which has stayed reassuringly low. But mostly they figure that as the final payments near, the motorist becomes a prime candidate for a new car—and a fresh load of monthly payments.

The Federal Reserve group figures that monthly payment terms on autos and appliances have been lowered just about as far as they can be, so it thinks most of the future rise in the total of installment debt will come from the new and growing invasion of the consumer credit filed by the financers of travel, vacations and services, and by the increased emphasis on it by department and other retail stores seeking a larger share of the consumer's spendable dollar, as measured by his income expectations.

'Amanda Story' Demonstrates How Small Firms Play Role

Amanda, with 650 population, has a small business firm with a payroll of $320,000 for 82 employes and a volume of a million dollars a year, because Stanton Johns demonstrated that General Motors Corporation and small business depend on each other.

That's the Amanda story being told to a nationwide audience this month in large two-page advertisements in the March 18 issue of Life and March 23 issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

It was the enterprise of Johns, and the need of GM for dependable suppliers, that started Mid-West Fabricating Company, Inc., in 1946. It is a story duplicated by many of the 26,000 firms throughout the U. S. who supply GM with goods and services, and get nearly 50 per cent of every dollar GM takes in for its ultimate products.

In 1946, Johns was making garden plow wheels in a rented plant in Columbus. But he wanted to have his own plant in the town where he lived, Amanda. So did Amanda residents.

* * *

TWENTY OF them loaned him a total of $5,000, and Mid-West Fabricating Company, Inc., was born. Scouting for new business, Johns found GM's Oldsmobile Division in Lansing, Mich. needed more help in fabricating car control rods. A trial order led to a greater volume, and other GM divisions added to Oldsmobile orders.

From the original volume of $27,000 in 1946, Johns' firm has grown to a million dollar business. In addition to the payroll, Mid-West pumps cash into the economic stream of Amanda via taxes and civic contributions and purchases from its suppliers, demonstrating again the interdependence of small business, GM and the national economic welfare.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 18, employed in an aircraft factory. Last June the boy I'm engaged to marry left for college two thousand miles away.

Since then I have become very fond of a man 25 years old and this is where my trouble begins. Juan, I'll call him, is Spanish and I am not. He is a Roman Catholic and I am of the Protestant faith. My parents don't approve of my going with a man of another faith and nationality.

I have fallen for Juan in a big way and don't think I'll be able to get over it very easily. As for Don, the boy I'm engaged to, he'll be gone for five years and I shall see him only 10 days of each year. That's a long time in which to sit and wait!

Please can you suggest some way of persuading my parents that I am old enough to decide for myself about the kind of friends I want to have?

E. D.

DEAR E.D.: You are treading dangerous ground, as your life-seasoned parents recognize, in dating an older man of entirely different background.

Already you are smitten with Juan, you admit; and the possibility exists that infatuation, plus dating association, may lead to marriage. If so, this step would involve you in those unending conflicts and uncertainties that characterize most "mixed" marriages, even at best.

It happens that a new book on the emotion-laden subject of mixed marriage has just come to my attention. Authored by sociologists James H. S. Brossard and Elan-Press)—and is favorably regard-or Stoker Boll, it is titled "One Marriage: Two Faiths" (Ronald ed by spokesmen for both the Roman Catholic and Protestant viewpoint.

A Roman Catholic educator commends its "rare impartiality and insight" and its "carefully documented reminder that marriage involves living with a person, not merely loving him." A Protestant churchman calls it "a valuable volume . . . presenting the issue factually through reliable data." And a mental hygienist says, "It should be read by young people who will soon be choosing their mates."

But back to your problem: It appears that you have a genius for heading into dead-end streets emotionally, and coming up against frustration and futility.

At your age, 18, it is a mistake to be engaged to a lad who will be thousands of miles away for the next five years. It isn't in the cards that your or he will "wait" for one another, for that length of time, in terms of not dating other friends. You've already proved it, in dating Juan and "falling" for him.

So your engagement to Don isn't a real engagement—which has to do with serious intent to wed. You two simply had a spell of thinking you'd like to be man and wife, had you been ready for domestic responsibilities when the idea struck. But you weren't; or at least Don wasn't, then; so you pledged yourselves to keep the idea in mind until he's through school. That's all there is to it.

In representing yourself as being pledged, you reduce your chances of dating nice boys. You lose out with the better element in your age group, which isn't good for you. Thus you become a target for odd balls, for lone wolves, for social problems and complications, self-engendered.

Here's where Juan enters the picture; and it is a safe bet that if he were a sterling character, he wouldn't be crossing cultural boundaries, to rob the cradle (figuratively) behind the back of your fiance. And if you were smart you wouldn't encourage it.

M. H.

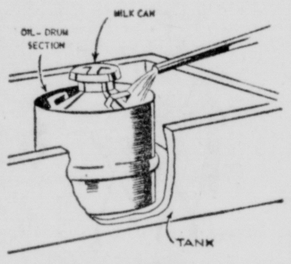
Tank Holder



To keep milk cans from overturning when set in cooling tank, one farmer sets his cans in a section cut from an oil drum. The drum section is set directly under the water-supply pipe so that the can of milk is submerged long before the cooling tank is filled. Drum keeps the can from tilting more than a few degrees.

Hoover Says U.S. Facing Inflation

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said Wednesday that taxpayers are "groaning" over the record government spending and he warned that inflation is the country's most serious threat.

Hoover, 82, said that if the public took some of the "special interest groups' pressure off Congress" the lawmakers would have a better chance to reduce the government's spending program.

"The purchasing power of the dollar is down every month," said Hoover who is in Miami Beach for his customary bonefishing in the Florida Keys.

Weather Forecast System Only So-So

CHICAGO (AP)—The latest wrinkle in weather forecasting — by mathematical theories developed in the last 10 years—works well in the East but has been a flop in the mid-continent, a researcher said today.

Prof. Sverre Petterssen, a director of the University of Chicago's weather forecasting research center, said mathematical forecasts for the area between the Continental Divide and the Mississippi Valley are worse than no forecasts at all.

However, they are up to 90 per cent accurate in the East, he said.

One-Time Editor Recalls Day Of Frisco Earthquake

CHICAGO (AP) — A half century has passed since an earthquake turned San Francisco into a gargantuan torch but Herschel Macdonald remembers it as though it were yesterday.

"The quake lasted only three quarters of a minute, but it was a terror," Macdonald recalls. "It knocked me out of bed. I climbed to the roof of a bank building in Berkeley and, through the fog, saw San Francisco in flames."

Macdonald, now 80 and active in the insurance business, was The Associated Press editor who on April 18, 1906 flashed by telegraph to the world, "San Francisco is burning."

He tells his story on a recorded radio program to be broadcast Saturday, March 23, from 9:30 to 10 p.m. CST over WBBM, Chicago, during a visit by Hugh Hill, WBBM special events director, to the Chicago bureau of The Associated Press.

In the program, "Ear on Chicago," Hill observes how news is gathered, edited and distributed throughout the world. Al Orton, AP, bureau chief, outlines how the world's largest newsgathering service collects and transmits news to press and radio.

Reporter William Conway phones City Editor Carroll Arimond from a news assignment. Conway gives the information to a rewrite man who puts the story in shape. Hill follows the story to the various wire desks where editors appraise it for use on their circuits.

In the second section of the program to be broadcast over the same station at the same time March 30. Hill reports on how sports and market news is covered. Fred Francis, Chicago traffic bureau chief, describes the operation of Wirephoto and Photofax picture transmission.

Photographer Harry Hall narrates how in the early 1920s Charles Lindbergh was tricked by competing photographers into flying a box of unexposed film to Chicago from a tornado-stricken area of southern Illinois.

Lindbergh, who had yet to make his Atlantic hop in 1927, thought he was flying a selection of pictures. Hall, who met Lindbergh at the airport to run the film downtown, had to break the sad news.

Duplicate copies of the recorded programs will be presented to seven Midwestern colleges and universities, Purdue, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa State, DePauw, Michigan State and Iowa.

Vehicle Bureau Auditor Penalized

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Civil Service Commission has disclosed that Sharon M. Quigley, a traveling auditor with the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, will be suspended for 30 days beginning April 3 for disciplinary reasons.

Quigley is stationed in East Liverpool and audits records of deputy registrars in seven counties. The suspension notice was signed by Gordon Jeffery, director of the Department of Highway Safety. His personnel officer, Dale Fulton, said the suspension "has to do with things he was not doing that he should have."

Cadillac

Speaks A Language All Its Own!

Take a good look at this gentleman as he strides out into the early morning to his waiting car.

In all probability you feel—as we do—that you know a goodly number of things about him.

First of all, we would be willing to venture that he is a man who holds to high standards of achievement.

We would guess that he is held in high personal esteem by his friends and associates.

And we would also suppose that he is a practical man who is keenly aware of the basic value and worth of the things around him.

The reason for all this is not far to seek.

For the motor car that awaits him at the curb-side bears the beautiful crest of Cadillac. And here, beyond all conjecture, is the most eloquent spokesman in the entire realm of possessions.

In fact, the Cadillac car has, over the years, been so closely associated with the leading citizenry of our land that the two have become all but inseparable in the public mind.

And just as these motorists have placed their trust in Cadillac, so Cadillac has given them everything they could hope for in an automobile.

Cadillac has given them unduplicated beauty and luxury . . . unsurpassed performance and comfort . . . and extraordinary quality and value.

* * *

Have you driven a 1957 Cadillac? If not, we urge you to come in and let the car tell you its own thrilling story on the highway.

We think you will agree that this year, more than ever, Cadillac speaks a language all its own!

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 18, employed in an aircraft factory. Last June the boy I'm engaged to marry left for college two thousand miles away.

Since then I have become very fond of a man 25 years old and this is where my trouble begins. Juan, I'll call him, is Spanish and I am not. He is a Roman Catholic and I am of the Protestant faith. My parents don't approve of my going with a man of another faith and nationality.

I have fallen for Juan in a big way and don't think I'll be able to get over it very easily. As for Don, the boy I'm engaged to, he'll be gone for five years and I shall see him only 10 days of each year. That's a long time in which to sit and wait!

Please can you suggest some way of persuading my parents that I am old enough to decide for myself about the kind of friends I want to have?

E. D.

DEAR E.D.: You are treading dangerous ground, as your life-seasoned parents recognize, in dating an older man of entirely different background.

Already you are smitten with Juan, you admit; and the possibility exists that infatuation, plus dating association, may lead to marriage. If so, this step would involve you in those unending conflicts and uncertainties that characterize most "mixed" marriages, even at best.

It happens that a new book on the emotion-laden subject of mixed marriage has just come to my attention. Authored by sociologists James H. S. Brossard and Elan-Press)—and is favorably regardor Stoker Boll, it is titled "One Marriage: Two Faiths" (Ronald ed by spokesmen for both the Roman Catholic and Protestant viewpoint.

A Roman Catholic educator commends its "rare impartiality and insight" and its "carefully documented reminder that marriage involves living with a person, not merely loving him." A Protestant churchman calls it "a valuable volume . . . presenting the issue factually through reliable data." And a mental hygienist says, "It should be read by young people who will soon be choosing their mates."

But back to your problem: It appears that you have a genius for heading into dead-end streets emotionally, and coming up against frustration and futility.

At your age, 18, it is a mistake to be engaged to a lad who will be thousands of miles away for the next five years. It isn't in the cards that your or he will "wait" for one another, for that length of time, in terms of not dating other friends. You've already proved it, in dating Juan and "falling" for him.

So your engagement to Don isn't a real engagement—which has to do with serious intent to wed. You two simply had a spell of thinking you'd like to be man and wife, had you been ready for domestic responsibilities when the idea struck. But you weren't; or at least Don wasn't, then; so you pledged yourselves to keep the idea in mind until he's through school. That's all there is to it.

In representing yourself as being pledged, you reduce your chances of dating nice boys. You lose out with the better element in your age group, which isn't good for you. Thus you become a target for odd balls, for lone wolves, for social problems and complications, self-engendered.

Here's where Juan enters the picture; and it is a safe bet that if he were a sterling character, he wouldn't be crossing cultural boundaries, to rob the cradle (figuratively) behind the back of your fiance. And if you were smart you wouldn't encourage it.

M. H.

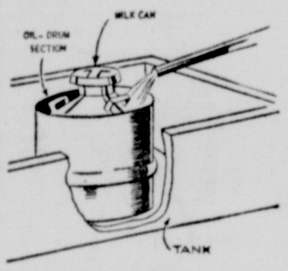
Tank Holder



To keep milk cans from overturning when set in cooling tank, one farmer sets his cans in a section cut from an oil drum. The drum section is set directly under the water-supply pipe so that the can of milk is submerged long before the cooling tank is filled. Drum keeps the can from tilting more than a few degrees.

Hoover Says U.S. Facing Inflation

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said Wednesday that taxpayers are "groaning" over the record government spending and he warned that inflation is the country's most serious threat.

Hoover, 82, said that if the public took some of the "special interest groups' pressure off Congress" the lawmakers would have a better chance to reduce the government's spending program.

"The purchasing power of the dollar is down every month," said Hoover who is in Miami Beach for his customary bonefishing in the Florida Keys.

Weather Forecast System Only So-So

CHICAGO (AP)—The latest wrinkle in weather forecasting — by mathematical theories developed in the last 10 years—works well in the East but has been a flop in the mid-continent, a researcher said today.

However, they are up to 90 per cent accurate in the East, he said.

ROUNDUP

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

One of the nation's foremost agricultural economists has predicted:

An increasing trend toward large scale speciailization in farming.

A continuation of larger and larger farms and fewer of them.

A greater reward for good management.

In a speech written for a Farm and Home Week audience at Ohio State University, D. Howard Doane, chairman of the board, Doane Agricultural Service, Inc., St. Louis, Mo., said:

"The farmer who is not prepared to use men, mechanical power and tools at top rates of efficiency just cannot stay in the game. The increasing proportion of operating costs that are direct cash costs means that a farmer can and will go broke much more quickly these days than was the case some 10 to 15 years ago.

"To survive, we must have high unit yields of crops and stock. We must have high returns from a day of hired labor and we must use machines to their optimum capacity."

Doane said we have nullified much of our farming efficiency, which under normal conditions would have resulted in more economical production and lower prices to consumers, by "voting to have Uncle Sam set and hold farm product prices so high that we have lost the benefits that normally would have come to us."

The noted economist said he believed the most discouraging aspect of the future of American agriculture is our increasing dependence on government.

"With government funds," he said, "there comes, as has always been the case, government direction. There is scarcely one element in our operation from soils to markets that government does not regulate, or at least influence. Government cannot do something for you without doing something to you."

A new chemical is now available for controlling poison ivy and horse nettles in orchards.

Known as Amino Triazole, the chemical comes as a dry wettable powder and is used at the rate of 4 pounds to 100 gallons of water, or 3 tablespoons per gallon. The ivy should be sprayed in midsummer when the plant reaches full leaf. Plants should be completely covered with the spray, according to C. W. Ellenwood of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station horticulture department.

Tests show Amino Triazole is a comparatively slow acting chemical. About two weeks after application, chlorophyll production in the plant ceases. This causes plants ot turn white. A complete kill of poison ivy, horse nettles, and Canada thistles will result if the solution has been carefully applied, says Ellenwood.

Amino Triazole still is rather expensive when used on a large scale but is recommended for spot spraying in ivy infested orchards. An advantage of this chemical over any other control is the ease with which the sprayer can be cleaned, Ellenwood says.

* * *

Alfalfa seed production has been increased to as much as 760 pounds per acre by the use of good management methods including fertilizer, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in citing recent Minnesota tests.

"This was nearly 18 times more than the average alfalfa seed production of 49 pounds per acre for Minnesota," says a statement issued here by the committee.

"Minnesota research men list three main essentials for getting good seed production for legume crops: 1—Effective pollination; 2—Control of harmful insects; 3—A good fertilizer program."

Agronomists, entomologists and soils men have used different rates and methods of insect control, pollination and fertilization with seed crops of alfalfa, alsike red clover and in field tests in Northern Minnesota. They have found that a combination of all these practices produces the best results.

In the tests, the research men used 1,000 pounds per acre of a phosphate-potash fertilizer and sprayed the plots with DDT and toxaphene before pollination.

In red clover tests, the research men obtained seed yields up to 700 pounds per acre, compared to state average of 59 pounds. Alsike clover seed production went as high as 808 pounds, or nearly eight times more than the Minnesota state average of 114 pounds per acre.

In addition to fertilization and insect control, the research men found that it is essential for legume plants to be disease-free to produce flowers that will mature. Also, they report that it takes good general management to make sure that the legume crop comes into flower at the right time of season.

Safety Official Warns Motorists To Stay Alert For Unexpected

How good are you in a highway emergency? Would you know what to do if a car you were trying to pass suddenly speeded up, leaving you too little room ahead to pass safely?

Knowing the answer to questions such as this and reacting correctly and quickly when confronted by such a situation could save your life.

Darriel Hatfield of the Pickaway County Traffic Safety Committee reminded motorists of this fact today as he urged them to "drive defensively." Hatfield spoke in behalf of the highway safety program which the Pickaway County committee is conducting in cooperation with the National Safety Council.

This is part of the nationwide "Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents" campaign, aimed at cutting the traffic toll. The Spring phase of this campaign stresses the moral responsibility of drivers for their own and the safety of others.

* * *

HATFIELD explained that the defensive driver is one who drives in such a manner as to avoid accidents by anticipating and allowing for hazards created by the unsafe acts of others, and by adverse traffic and weather conditions.

"If a defensive driver suddenly found he did not have enough time to pass safely, he would not step heavily on the gas and take a chance on making it," Hatfield said. "He would slam on his brakes, let the car he was trying to pass move ahead, then drop back behind it."

The "defensive driver" realizes that in addition to turning in a top-notch driving job himself, he also has a responsibility to make up for the shortcomings of others, Hatfield said. He pointed out that such an attitude comes naturally to persons accustomed to accepting their moral responsibilities in other departments of daily living.

"Unsafe actions of other drivers and pedestrians are not the only hazards that may confront the motorist," Hatfield warned. "He must also be alert to the dangers presented by adverse traffic and weather conditions."

Hatfield said drivers should be aware of the emergency situations that can arise when they're behind the wheel and should know how to cope with them. It is equally important to be constantly alert to anticipate danger and act quickly to remedy it, he said.

Erie Rail Earnings Slated To Climb

CLEVELAND (AP)—Erie Railroad earnings, up last year in spite of a five-week steel strike, are expected to rise again during 1957, Harry W. Von Willer, president of the railroad, reports.

Increased revenue from piggyback, or truck-trailer hauling operations; expansion and addition of industrial plants along Erie's lines, and several projects to reduce operating expenses were cited as reasons for anticipating higher net income.

ROUNDUP

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

One of the nation's foremost agricultural economists has predicted:

An increasing trend toward large scale specialization in farming.

A continuation of larger and larger farms and fewer of them.

A greater reward for good management.

In a speech written for a Farm and Home Week audience at Ohio State University, D. Howard Doane, chairman of the board, Doane Agricultural Service, Inc., St. Louis, Mo., said:

"The farmer who is not prepared to use men, mechanical power and tools at top rates of efficiency just cannot stay in the game. The increasing proportion of operating costs that are direct cash costs means that a farmer can and will go broke much more quickly these days than was the case some 10 to 15 years ago.

"To survive, we must have high unit yields of crops and stock. We must have high returns from a day of hired labor and we must use machines to their optimum capacity."

Doane said we have nullified much of our farming efficiency, which under normal conditions would have resulted in more economical production and lower prices to consumers, by "voting to have Uncle Sam set and hold farm product prices so high that we have lost the benefits that normally would have come to us."

The noted economist said he believed the most discouraging aspect of the future of American agriculture is our increasing dependence on government.

"With government funds," he said, "there comes, as has always been the case, government direction. There is scarcely one element in our operation from soils to markets that government does not regulate, or at least influence. Government cannot do something for you without doing something to you."

A new chemical is now available for controlling poison ivy and horse nettles in orchards.

Known as Amino Triazole, the chemical comes as a dry wettable powder and is used at the rate of 4 pounds to 100 gallons of water, or 3 tablespoons per gallon. The ivy should be sprayed in midsummer when the plant reaches full leaf. Plants should be completely covered with the spray, according to C. W. Ellenwood of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station horticulture department.

Tests show Amino Triazole is a comparatively slow acting chemical. About two weeks after application, chlorophyll production in the plant ceases. This causes plants ot turn white. A complete kill of poison ivy, horse nettles, and Canada thistles will result if the solution has been carefully applied, says Ellenwood.

Amino Triazole still is rather expensive when used on a large scale but is recommended for spot spraying in ivy infested orchards. An advantage of this chemical over any other control is the ease with which the sprayer can be cleaned, Ellenwood says.

Alfalfa seed production has been increased to as much as 760 pounds per acre by the use of good management methods including fertilizer, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in citing recent Minnesota tests.

"This was nearly 18 times more than the average alfalfa seed production of 49 pounds per acre for Minnesota," says a statement issued here by the committee.

"Minnesota research men list three main essentials for getting good seed production for legume crops: 1—Effective pollination; 2—Control of harmful insects; 3—A good fertilizer program."

Agronomists, entomologists and soils men have used different rates and methods of insect control, pollination and fertilization with seed crops of alfalfa, alsike red clover and in field tests in Northern Minnesota. They have found that a combination of all these practices produces the best results.

In the tests, the research men used 1,000 pounds per acre of a phosphate-potash fertilizer and sprayed the plots with DDT and toxaphene before pollination.

In red clover tests, the research men obtained seed yields up to 700 pounds per acre, compared to state average of 59 pounds. Alsike clover seed production went as high as 808 pounds, or nearly eight times more than the Minnesota state average of 114 pounds per acre.

In addition to fertilization and insect control, the research men found that it is essential for legume plants to be disease-free to produce flowers that will mature. Also, they report that it takes good general management to make sure that the legume crop comes into flower at the right time of season.

Suspect Released In Slaying Probe

COLUMBUS (AP) — Authorities here have released a 51-year-old suspect in the death of a young woman whose body was found in Big Darby Creek Saturday. Officers said the suspect, a painter from suburban Amvet Village, provided a satisfactory alibi.

Sheriff's Lt. Ellsworth Beck of Franklin County said the investigation will now shift to nearby Darbydale, where the woman's strangled body was found by four youths. Her death was ruled a homicide by Dr. Carl Tetrick, acting Franklin County coroner.

New Idle Pay Claims Dropping

COLUMBUS (AP) — New claims for unemployment compensation dropped from 13,068 for the week ended March 9 to 8,809 for the week ended March 16, the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports.

Continuing claims of those unemployed one week or more showed a slight increase—from 68,407 to 68,810—during the same period. The average weekly new claims filed in March of last year was 7,837, and continuing claims 65,538.

'Mad Dog Killer' Is Granted Stay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice Burton of the Supreme Court Wednesday granted a stay of execution to Leslie Irvin, sentenced to death for one of six killings he was charged with in the area of Evansville, Ind.

Burton granted a stay to remain in effect until after the full Supreme Court acts on a petition asking a review of Irvin's case.

Irvin, 32, and known as the "Mad Dog Killer," had been scheduled to die in the Indiana electric chair March 29.

Loudonville Opens Hospital Campaign

ASHLAND (AP)—A drive to raise $200,000 to equip and endow a nearly completed hospital in nearby Loudonville was started Wednesday night at a dinner where C. F. Kettering, who donated $300,000 for the project, was the featured speaker.

Kettering, former General Motors Corp. executive who is a part-time resident of the community, gave $300,000 for the hospital and Hugo Young, president of Flexible Body Co., donated the site.

Safety Official Warns Motorists To Stay Alert For Unexpected

How good are you in a highway emergency? Would you know what to do if a car you were trying to pass suddenly speeded up, leaving you too little room ahead to pass safely?

Knowing the answer to questions such as this and reacting correctly and quickly when confronted by such a situation could save your life.

Darriel Hatfield of the Pickaway County Traffic Safety Committee reminded motorists of this fact today as he urged them to "drive defensively." Hatfield spoke in behalf of the highway safety program which the Pickaway County committee is conducting in cooperation with the National Safety Council.

This is part of the nationwide "Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents" campaign, aimed at cutting the traffic toll. The Spring phase of this campaign stresses the moral responsibility of drivers for their own and the safety of others.

* * *

HATFIELD explained that the defensive driver is one who drives in such a manner as to avoid accidents by anticipating and allowing for hazards created by the unsafe acts of others, and by adverse traffic and weather conditions.

"If a defensive driver suddenly found he did not have enough time to pass safely, he would not step heavily on the gas and take a chance on making it," Hatfield said. "He would slam on his brakes, let the car he was trying to pass move ahead, then drop back behind it."

The "defensive driver" realizes that in addition to turning in a top-notch driving job himself, he also has a responsibility to make up for the shortcomings of others, Hatfield said. He pointed out that such an attitude comes naturally to persons accustomed to accepting their moral responsibilities in other departments of daily living.

"Unsafe actions of other drivers and pedestrians are not the only hazards that may confront the motorist," Hatfield warned. "He must also be alert to the dangers presented by adverse traffic and weather conditions."

Hatfield said drivers should be aware of the emergency situations that can arise when they're behind the wheel and should know how to cope with them. It is equally important to be constantly alert to anticipate danger and act quickly to remedy it, he said.

Erie Rail Earnings Slated To Climb

CLEVELAND (AP)—Erie Railroad earnings, up last year in spite of a five-week steel strike, are expected to rise again during 1957, Harry W. Von Willer, president of the railroad, reports.

Increased revenue from piggyback, or truck-trailer hauling operations; expansion and addition of industrial plants along Erie's lines, and several projects to reduce operating expenses were cited as reasons for anticipating higher net income.

Devil's Tramping Ground North Carolina Mystery

Who or what made the circular path that puzzles this tourist? No one may ever know.

At the Devil's tramping ground, near Silver City, N. C., legend has it the Devil spends his nights walking in a circle, plotting against the good, and scheming up new forms of evil.

A flood of sightseers have come to rural Chatham county, to speculate on the origin of this strange circular path, about 40 feet in diameter, which local legend says has been worn by the nefarious nocturnal pacings of the Devil.

Oldtimers in the area say the path has been there "always," and that within their memory no vegetation has grown upon it. Few residents of the area venture near the place at night—and even if they did, everyone knows the Devil can make himself disappear at will. Don't they?

Ever since publication of a book on North Carolina legends, titled after this area, the Tramping Ground has become one of the state's most popular "curiosity" attractions.

* * *

A PARKING turn-out, off Highway 902, has been built to accommodate the many curious wayfarers who stop to take pictures and try to find some logical explanation for the circular path.

Could it have been the site of a fire ringing an Indian shrine or ceremonial ground? A salt lick frequented by deer? Perhaps it was the site of an old cane mill, or clay mixing plant where horses or oxen tramped a permanent path while powering a turnwheel?

If so, why has it lasted so long? Why is it the only place of its kind in this peaceful Carolina countryside? No human being knows.

Approximately 40 per cent of the teachers in America are said to have no college degree.

Highway Agency Signs New Expert

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Department of Highways has created a new job to speed up paper work connected with building roads.

The job is administrative assistant to Fred Reiners, deputy highway director for administration. The post is being filled by 39-year-old Robert E. Stockdale, Twin Lakes, former Kent State University professor.

Stockdale's salary is $8,280 a year. He is a former Portage County sheriff and a Marine Corps veteran of World War II.

Stockdale is a graduate of Kent State and received his doctor of philosophy degree at Western Reserve University.

Utility Finances Study Of Minerals

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Division of Geological Survey of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources has received a $6,000 grant from the Ohio Power Co. for research study of rocks and minerals in Noble County.

R. J. Bernhagen, chief of the division, announced the project had been assigned to Merrill F. Aukland, instructor in geography and geology at Ohio University, who will supervise a team of researchers.

Sun-Loving Seal Seals Own Fate

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—A seal has sealed his own fate.

Some days ago he flopped onto the beach to bask in the sun only to flee three times from curious boardwalk strollers.

Last time he showed up in the surf again, two maintenance men on the famous Steel Pier took him in tow—right to the Philadelphia Zoo, whose officials were delighted to have him.

Flemming Stresses Need For Peak U.S. Mobilization

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, president of Ohio Wesleyan University, says the United States is at the peak of its mobilization for defense and must stay there until a "spiritual breakthrough" makes lasting peace possible.

The former chief of the Office of Defense Mobilization said the country's strong points in its mobilization program include:

1. Huge government stockpiles of strategic materials.
2. Intelligent use of its resources.
3. Ability to retaliate quickly and effectively if attacked.
4. Effective deployment and training of a continental defense command.

Southeast Ohio TB Clinic To Be Dedicated March 29

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Ceremonies dedicating the state's new Southeast Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital at nearby Nelsonville will be conducted March 29.

Dr. Ralph E. Dwork, state health director, said Gov. C. William O'Neill will be speaker at the dedication.

The hospital will be open to public view March 30 and 31.

The 1½ million dollar structure, under supervision of the Ohio Department of Health, will serve all the people of Ohio, Dr. Dwork said. He added, however, that it's expected most of the patients will come from a 14-county area bordering by U. S. 40 and the Scioto River.

Counties in this area include Athens, Fairfield, Gallia, Guernsey, Hocking, Lawrence, Meigs, Monroe, Morgan, Muskingum, Noble, Perry, Vinton and Washington.

Dr. Dwork said the 77-bed hospital has modern diagnostic and treatment services for tuberculosis patients and outpatients.

The hospital, he said, "will fulfill a long-felt need in southeastern Ohio, and will be a model of tuberculosis hospital design of this size."

The three-story structure was designed by Dan A. Carmichael, Columbus architect.

A staff of approximately 100 will care for patients in the hospital, under the medical direction of Dr. Harold H. Cashman, former superintendent of the Belmont Sanatorium, St. Clairsville. Robert W. Stuart is the new hospital's administrator.

Dr. Dwork said the federal government granted $350,000 toward construction of the hospital. Cost of equipping the TB center was $188,000.

Offices, medical services, eating facilities, patient and outpatient services are located on the ground floor. There is an operating room for minor or emergency surgery, as well as a complete laboratory.

Recreation, movies and religious services, Dr. Dwork said, will be held in the 108-seat auditorium, also situated on the ground floor.

There are 17 two-bedrooms and four one-bedrooms on the second floor, providing accommodations for 38 patients. The top floor has beds for 39 patients, accommodated in 17 two-bedrooms and five one-bedrooms.

Some 150 persons from the 14-county area including state legislators, Trudeau Society officials, county commissioners and other health officials have been invited to participate in the ceremonies.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, president of Ohio Wesleyan University, says the United States is at the peak of its mobilization for defense and must stay there until a "spiritual breakthrough" makes lasting peace possible.

The former chief of the Office of Defense Mobilization said the country's strong points in its mobilization program include:

1. Huge government stockpiles of strategic materials.
2. Intelligent use of its resources.
3. Ability to retaliate quickly and effectively if attacked.
4. Effective deployment and training of a continental defense command.

Southeast Ohio TB Clinic To Be Dedicated March 29

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Ceremonies dedicating the state's new Southeast Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital at nearby Nelsonville will be conducted March 29.

Dr. Ralph E. Dwork, state health director, said Gov. C. William O'Neill will be speaker at the dedication.

The hospital will be open to public view March 30 and 31.

The 1½ million dollar structure, under supervision of the Ohio Department of Health, will serve all the people of Ohio, Dr. Dwork said. He added, however, that it's expected most of the patients will come from a 14-county area bordering by U. S. 40 and the Scioto River.

Counties in this area include Athens, Fairfield, Gallia, Guernsey, Hocking, Lawrence, Meigs, Monroe, Morgan, Muskingum, Noble, Perry, Vinton and Washington.

Dr. Dwork said the 77-bed hospital has modern diagnostic and treatment services for tuberculosis patients and outpatients.

The hospital, he said, "will fulfill a long-felt need in southeastern Ohio, and will be a model of tuberculosis hospital design of this size."

The three-story structure was designed by Dan A. Carmichael, Columbus architect.

A staff of approximately 100 will care for patients in the hospital, under the medical direction of Dr. Harold H. Cashman, former superintendent of the Belmont Sanatorium, St. Clairsville. Robert W. Stuart is the new hospital's administrator.

Dr. Dwork said the federal government granted $350,000 toward construction of the hospital. Cost of equipping the TB center was $188,000.

Offices, medical services, eating facilities, patient and outpatient services are located on the ground floor. There is an operating room for minor or emergency surgery, as well as a complete laboratory.

Recreation, movies and religious services, Dr. Dwork said, will be held in the 108-seat auditorium, also situated on the ground floor.

There are 17 two-bedrooms and four one-bedrooms on the second floor, providing accommodations for 38 patients. The top floor has beds for 39 patients, accommodated in 17 two-bedrooms and five one-bedrooms.

Some 150 persons from the 14-county area including state legislators, Trudeau Society officials, county commissioners and other health officials have been invited to participate in the ceremonies.

Skinny Cuban Gets Praise In Flatbush

Valdes' Fast Ball Is Delight To Brook Manager Walt Alston

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It makes no difference to Brooklyn Manager Walt Alston whether they call him the Great Gutierrez or the Mighty Valdes. All Alston knows is that the skinny 6-3 Cuban with a smoking fast ball may be around Flatbush a lot longer than most people thought.

Rene Gutierrez Valdes, who had a 22-8 record with Portland of the Pacific Coast League last season, displayed more of his classy hurling Wednesday as the Dodgers edged the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 in an 11-inning exhibition game at Vero Beach, Fla.

Rene added three more hitless and scoreless innings in his second appearance as a Dodger. He walked two Cardinals, and another reached base on an error, but none got past first.

In his Brooklyn debut Sunday, Valdes came to the mound with the bases loaded and none out in the eighth against the Detroit Tigers. Five of the Tigers popped up and the sixth bounced back to the box as Valdes preserved a 3-2 Dodger victory.

Valdes is known in Latin America as the Great Gutierrez, which is his father's name. At Portland it was the mighty Valdes, his mother's maiden name.

Valdes is signed to a contract with Los Angeles, Brooklyn's new Coast League farm club, but if he keeps up this kind of pitching he could move to Ebbets Field.

Elsewhere:

The Detroit Tigers, smarting under criticism of Manager Jack Tighe after losing 8 of 10 exhibitions, clubbed four Pittsburgh pitchers for 11 hits, including a two-run homer by Charley Lau, to defeat the Pirates 8-4.

Ed Bouchee cracked a three-run homer and Bob Bowman got a solo round-tripper to provide the punch as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Washington Senators 6-4.

Don Larsen of the New York Yankees made his first appearance since his World Series perfect game and was battered soundly by the Cincinnati Redlegs, who won 20-6. He pitched three innings, gave up a homer to George Crowe, two triples, two doubles, a single and five runs. All told the Redlegs collected 25 hits.

Two walks with the bases loaded gave the Milwaukee Braves a pair of runs in their 3-2 verdict over the Kansas City Athletics. Bob Cerv homered for the A's.

The Boston Red Sox defeated the Chicago White Sox 9-4, scoring five times in the fourth inning.

Bradley Given Nod To Win In NIT Semifinals

NEW YORK (AP) — Bradley and St. Bonaventure have been made the early favorites to win tonight's semifinals in the National Invitation basketball tourney, but there will be plenty of support for Temple and Memphis State.

Second-seeded Bradley is favored on the basis of its astounding 116-81 Madison Square Garden record - breaking comeback against Xavier of Ohio Tuesday after being down 21 points at 38-17. The Bonnies get the nod because of their 85-68 trouncing of top-seeded Seattle Monday.

"After that performance by Bradley, I don't know how we can beat them," said Temple Coach Harry Litwack. "But we'll be on the floor."

That should be enough for anyone who watched the slick, poised Owls from Philadelphia whip Dayton 77-66 Tuesday. Litwack has a court wizard in junior southpaw Guy Rodgers, who inspires teammates Jay Norman and Mel Brodsky to great heights. They do not figure to collapse as Xavier did before a Bradley all-court press.

In addition, as Litwack pointed out, "our boys like to play in the Garden." Temple has lost only one game in the Garden in five years and that by one point to Ohio State last December.

Gonzales Continues Lead Over Rosewall

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — Pancho Gonzales and Ken Rosewall moved on to Evansville, Ind., today with Gonzales leading the slight Australian in their cross-country tennis series 25-10.

Gonzales got himself deep in a hole in the 35th match Wednesday night and then turned on the power to win 6-8, 6-4, 6-4.

After winning the first set Rosewall moved out to a 4-1 lead in the second, but Gonzales raced through the next five games to take the set to square the match. The third set followed service except for the sixth game, when Gonzales broke Rosewall for his winning margin.

Dodgers Again Given Label As Team To Beat In 1957

Editor's Note: Following is another in a series of articles appraising the major league baseball teams.

By JOE REICHLER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers are just as good, perhaps even better than when they won the National League pennant last year and must be regarded as the team to beat for the 1957 flag.

That is the opinion of Walter Alston who, in his three previous years with the Dodgers, gained a reputation of sorts as being an ultra-conservative manager both in expression and action.

So it came as a surprise when the Dodger skipper made such observations as these:

"I think our chances to win are just as good as they ever were . . ."

"If a couple of our lefthanders come through, we could have the best pitching staff since I've been here. . . ."

We're not concerned with this supposed age problem. Desire eliminates age. . . ."

Alston, despite his optimistic view, acknowledged a few problems still existed but he hoped they would be eliminated by the time the regular season got under way in four weeks.

"We're not yet decided on who will play at second, third and left field," he said, "and we're still awaiting final word on Campanella's hand is all right, our attack can be strengthened 25 per cent. If Spooner and Podres come through, we could have the best pitching in the league.

"Remember, we didn't have Sal Maglie and Don Bessent until the season was nearly half gone. Carl Erskine had arm trouble. Roger Craig should be better now that he's put in a full season in the big leagues. Don Newcombe ought to have another good year, maybe not as good but well enough. Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax have shown remarkable improvement this spring.

Then we have kids like Fred Kipp (20-7 at Montreal), Bob Darnell (16-12) at Portland and Rene Valdes (22-7 at Portland), who have looked exceptionally good so far. And don't forget Ralph Branca. He's looked as good as any of them."

Alston's biggest disappointments thus far have been the poor showing of Charlie Neal at second base and rookie Don Demeter, who was counted on to take over the left field post after hitting 41 homers and driving in 128 runs at Fort Worth last year.

Top Baseball Chiefs Called To Confab

BELLEAIR, Fla. (AP) — The men who rule baseball get together behind closed doors Friday to decide a line of policy against pending legislation which may define their game as a business and not a sport.

Commissioner Ford Frick called the extraordinary session at his spring headquarters earlier in the week. All 16 major league clubs will be represented along with American League President Will Harridge, National League President Warren Giles and Minor League President George Trautman.

No one was ready to comment on what action baseball may take, but Frick said he has "a plan I want to place before the owners. We'll just sit down with our lawyers and thresh it out."

Baseball, twice previously ruled a sport by the Supreme Court and not subject to antitrust laws, at present is confronted by bills filed by Rep. Celler (D-NY), chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, and Rep. Hillings (R-Calif), generally defined as "unfavorable" to baseball.

The third, introduced by Rep. Keating (R-NY), would set up a "code of fair play" for sports, joining baseball, pro football and basketball in one category, rather than declaring them subject to monopoly laws.

The present controversy was set off with the Supreme Court's recent decision appraising pro football as a business.

Wynn Has Trouble Getting In Shape

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Veteran right hander Early Wynn, who won 2 games for the Cleveland Indians last year, is having a hard time getting started in spring training.

He was ordered to take a rest earlier this week when he developed a high fever and upset stomach due to a virus infection. The 37-year-old pitcher is now undergoing daily heat treatments for what doctors say is inflammation of tendons and perhaps a pinched nerve in his right hip.

A scheduled game between the Indians and the Baltimore Orioles was cancelled here Wednesday because of rain.

Farrell Suggests Spring Twin Bills

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — With the need for trimming major league rosters to 28 by opening day, the possibility of exhibition season doubleheaders was suggested today by manager Kerby Farrell of the Cleveland Indians.

"I think playing 18 competitive innings a day in the spring would be a great help," said Farrell. "I wouldn't say how many doubleheaders should be played, but the more the better."

Farrell thinks most players wouldn't object to spring twin bills. "I know right now, I have men coming to me and asking why they can't play more."

Playoffs Set For Top 4 Pro Cage Outfits

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The semifinal playoffs of the National Basketball Assn. get underway tonight, with the Syracuse Nationals meeting the Celtics at Boston and the Minneapolis Lakers tackling the Hawks at St. Louis in the best-of-three series.

The Nationals, who rallied to win 29 of their last 46 games to grab second place, eliminated the defending champion Philadelphia Warriors in the first round of the playoffs, two games to none.

Minneapolis came from last place in the western division to finish in a triple tie for first place with Fort Wayne and St. Louis. The Hawks defeated the Lakers in a playoff for first place, but Minneapolis took two straight from Fort Wayne to qualify for the semifinals.

Boston plays at Syracuse in the second game Saturday, a nationally televised affair at 2:30 p. m. EST, with the third game at Boston Sunday afternoon.

Minneapolis remains in St. Louis for a second game Sunday, then goes home to meet the Hawks in the third tilt Monday night.

Sharp Ohio Teams Face Test In ABC

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A pair of the nation's best known teams were to make their bid in the 1957 American Bowling Congress tournament today.

They are Telco Tool and S&Z Tool and Die of Cleveland.

Telco has been Ohio match game champion for three years.

The singles lead is held by Dean Overholser, Chicago, with 708. Rudy Fassl and Sam Coleman of Cincinnati lead the doubles standings with 1,309.

Cooper, Burkemo Split Seminole Cash

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Most of the touring golf professionals moved on to Fort Lauderdale today for the $5,000 Pro-Amateur Tournament at the Coral Ridge Country Club after wrapping up the 36-hole Seminole affair.

Pete Cooper, who tied Walter Burkemo in the Seminole with 139, will return to Lakeland, Fla., where he is building a golf course and Ben Hogan is going back to Dallas, Tex., for a few days.

Cooper and Burkemo had identical rounds of 73-66—139 Wednesday over the 6,746-yard Seminole Club course and split $2,800.

Hogan and Sam Snead, tied for third with 141 and split $1,200.

Kluszewski Set To Start Game

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Ted Kluszewski makes his first appearance of the season at first base today as the Redlegs tangle with the Phillies in "Grapefruit League" play.

The big guy so far has appeared only four times at the plate—and then as a pinchhitter—but Wednesday he singled safely as his teammates slaughtered the world champion Yankees 20-6. Except for his pinch-hitting, Kluszewski has put in his time in batting practice and jogging around the field to keep his huge frame limber and his weight in line.

Kluszewski Set To Start Game

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Ted Kluszewski makes his first appearance of the season at first base today as the Redlegs tangle with the Phillies in "Grapefruit League" play.

The big guy so far has appeared only four times at the plate—and then as a pinchhitter—but Wednesday he singled safely as his teammates slaughtered the world champion Yankees 20-6. Except for his pinch-hitting, Kluszewski has put in his time in batting practice and jogging around the field to keep his huge frame limber and his weight in line.

Electronic "Brain" Making Study Of Circleville Gas Supply Needs

How's the supply of natural gas down around Court and Union? What kind of a pressure did they have this past Winter along E. Main? What kind of distribution problems are in sight to give the whole city more gas when the customers need it?

These are all routine questions to the Columbia Gas System's electronic "brain", located in Columbus. The big machine is now being used to improve and extend natural gas service in Circleville, returning prompt and accurately answers for all the questions directly involved in such a project.

Details of the work have been outlined by Harry S. Metier, local manager for the Ohio Fuel Gas Company.

Increased demands for gas have made changes in the local distribution system necessary, Metier explained. Ohio Fuel serves 3,300 customers in Circleville.

* * *

THE ELECTRONIC "brain", known officially as the McIlroy Analyzer, can figure in hours, pipeline problems that engineers would need days or weeks to solve. It pinpoints needed improvements and even indicates the sizes of pipelines needed.

Use of the electronic "brain" is part of a continuing effort to expand and improve natural gas service in Circleville, Metier said. Ohio Fuel has spent $153,112 in the last five years to improve service to existing customers and extend gas service to new customers in the area.

Forty-eight projects, costing $16,095, were completed in 1956. They included 25 construction jobs involving more than 1½ miles of new pipelines, construction of a new district regulator station in East Alley, etc.

Ohio Fuel construction expenditures for the previous four years follow: $6,397 in 1952; $5,546 in 1953, $36,240 in 1954, and $88,834 in 1955.

Demoted Police Officer Cleared

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP)—Two police officers demoted May 1 following a Columbiana County grand jury investigation of an East Liverpool burglary scandal in which seven patrolmen were indicted, have been reinstated by Mayor Arnold W. Devon.

The mayor Wednesday swore in Lt. John L. Russell as police chief to replace Acting Chief Robert H. Pyle and Patrolman George B. Kidd as lieutenant to succeed Acting Lt. Robert Duffy.

Integration of Police, Fire Units Tested in Michigan

BY DICK RANDALL
Herald Staff Writer

In a quiet sort of way, some of Circleville's community leaders have been watching the outcome of an experimental program now being launched in Dearborn, Mich.

The program involves a plan which some insist might work to advantage here. In off-record talks, city officials have frequently discussed idea — some willing to believe in it, and others claiming it would only touch off municipal chaos and costly confusion.

Dearborn, a southeastern Michigan city of 130,000, is planning to join its police and fire departments into a single unit. According to theory, the integration of the departments will provide the city with better coordinated and more efficient service at a lower cost.

Under the system, Dearborn's 200 policemen will receive instruction as firemen, and the city's 125 firefighters will be trained in police work.

* * *

ALL NEW recruits will be hired only as policemen and schooled for both fire and police work. Dearborn is not planning to hire any more new firemen as such.

It is emphasized by advocates of the idea that the city's veteran firemen would not be forced into police work. However, a schedule of salary increases is planned as an inducement to firemen and policemen to volunteer for training in the second profession.

Firemen in police drill would get $200 additional and policemen undergoing instruction as firefighters would be given $100 increase.

To put the integration into effect, Dearborn plans to purchase 24 station wagons which will be operated on a 24-hour-a-day basis. The station wagons will replace the city's 20 police patrol cars now in use.

Each station wagon will be named by a crew of two. Each vehicle will be equipped with two-way radios, two fire extinguishers, boots, coats and fire helmets, gas masks, a stretcher and blankets, and a first aid kit.

In the past, when Dearborn police and fire units were separate, a police cruiser often arrived at the scene of a fire before the more cumbursome fire trucks. Under the new system, police-firemen in the station wagons will be able to go into action immediately as firemen.

* * *

IT IS THOUGHT the new mobile units will thus be able to extinguish a minor blaze which might otherwise have become a major fire in a matter of a few more minutes.

The new station wagons when not used in firefighting will be in operation as police patrol cars.

Dearborn's three fire houses, under the integration plan, will be manned only be a skeleton force of firemen whose job will be to maintain the heavier fire equipment and drive it to fires.

The Dearborn experiment is being followed with interest by many municipalities all over the country.

Interplanetary Travel Predicted

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Interplanetary travel will become "commonplace" in the next 50 years, World War I ace Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker predicts.

Rickenbacker, who is now chairman of the board of Eastern Airlines, also foresaw the day when "nuclear powered guided missiles will reach speeds up to 25,000 miles an hour."
